PACIFIC COAST LASHED BY GREAT GALES

Rudyard Kipling In Grave Condition After Operation

Great Britain's Famous Bard Takes Turn for Worse After Being Rushed to Operating Table in London Hospital With Gastric Disorder; Mrs. Kipling at His Side

Associated Press

London, Jan. 13.—The condition of Rudyard Kipling, Great Britain's famous bard, was stated to be "very grave" at 5.30 p.m. to-day, eight hours after he had undergone an emergency operation in a London hospital for a gastric disorder.

Mr. Kipling took a turn for the worse late in the afternoon. Only a few hours earlier his condition had been described as "satisfactory."

The poet, who observed his seventieth birthday anniversary just two weeks ago to-day, was stricken in a suite of Brown's Hotel and in semi-conscious condition was taken in an ambulance to the Central Middlesex Hospital this morning.

The first hospital announcement said "an urgent operation was performed." A noon bulletin said the patient was "going on as well as could be expected."

He arrived at the hospital at 8 a.m. (midnight P.S.T.) and his condition was so critical that an emergency operation was decided on. He was taken to the operating theatre at 9.15 a.m. (1.15 a.m. P.S.T.).

The operation, requiring almost two hours, was performed by Dr Alfred E. Webb-Johnson, honorary surgeon of the Middlesex Hospital.

COMPLICATED OPERATION

An assistant secretary of the hospital said:

"It was a very urgent, complicated operation, but the patient's condition is fairly satisfactory now."

Ethiopians Hail War Trophy—Italian Tank

Several times lately the Ethiopian armies have reported capture of Italian tanks. An account last week said some had been turned and used against the Italians. When the above picture was taken by H. V. Drees, NEA service cameraman, exulting crowds of Ethiopian soldiers were swarming along as one of their number demonstrated a tank taken in battle on the Ogaden (southern) front.

Bodies Washed Ashore From Ss. Iowa, Pounded To Pieces Off Columbia

Crew of Freighter, Thirty-four Men, Lost in Disaster at Peacock Spit, at Entrance to River; Wreckage of Vessel Strews Washington and Oregon Coasts; Other Ships Battle Way to Ports

Associated Press

Astoria, Ore., Jan. 13.—An angry Pacific, apparently little assuaged by the thirty-four lives its treacherous waters claimed from the steamship Iowa, continued to crash the Oregon and Washington shores to-day—a menace to all things which dared its wrath.

Six bodies were recovered from the foam-capped surf and coastguardsmen maintained their constant patrol for others.

The hammering waves pounded the Iowa to bits on the sands of Peacock Spit, off the coast of Southern Washington yesterday. The entire crew perished in one of the most furious storms to lash the North Pacific Coast in many years.

Mountainous waves and an irresistible gale clutched the 410-foot freighter just as it crossed out over the Columbia River Bar, bound southward and for the east coast. Slowly, at first, the ship was forced off its course and driven northward.

STRONGER THAN ENGINES

The oppressive force became greater—an SOS was flashed—full speed ahead was ordered.

But the sturdy engines of the craft were no match for the aroused elements, which had the vessel in full retreat soon, and grounded on the spit where the giant breakers comb the shallow shore line for several miles out to sea.

FIERCE GALES

A seventy-six-mile-an-hour hurricane was blowing over Peacock Spit, and farther southward on the Oregon shore the wind reached a velocity of ninety miles an hour.

Two of the six battered and oil-smeared bodies were identified. They were those of Marion Perich of New Orleans and O. A. Meyers of Portland. The bodies, recovered from the southern Washington shore, were brought to a mortuary here on the south bank of the mighty Columbia River.

Coastguardsmen and Civilian Conservation Corps men, swinging lanterns through the darkness, maintained an all-night vigil, patrolling every foot of the thirteen-mile beach between North Head and Willapa Harbor in search of other bodies. It was feared the big seas would carry bodies away again if they were not

CITY FEELS OCEAN GALE

Wind Early Yesterday Morning Reached Velocity of Sixty Miles an Hour

Victoria was swept by the strongest gale of the present winter early yesterday morning, but aside from a few broken fences and uprooted trees no damage of any amount was reported. Thousands of citizens, however, were disturbed from their slumbers as doors and windows rattled and rain pelted into bedrooms.

Starting from the southeast at midnight Saturday the wind had reached a velocity of forty-nine miles an hour at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. By 4 o'clock it had increased to fifty five miles and from then on it dropped.

At intervals of five minutes the wind blew in gusts at the rate of sixty miles an hour.

During the morning it dropped and later shifted to the southwest, rising by 1 o'clock in the afternoon to forty miles an hour and increasing by 2 o'clock to forty-four miles. After that it again dropped.

Since January 1 a total of 3.59 inches of rain has fallen in Victoria. The average for January is 4.81, so that present prospects point to a wet month. It will be a year next week that Victoria had steady rain for almost a week and other portions of British Columbia reported heavy flood damages.

The seas off Victoria were unusually rough as a heavy ground swell swept in from the open Pacific, causing heavy surf along the beaches and over the rocks. The waters were covered with whitecaps and small boats sought shelter in the numerous bays and inlets along the Coast.

SECOND STORM NEARING COAST

Ocean Disturbance 800 Miles Away Is Rushing Towards B.C. and Washington

Associated Press

Seattle, Jan. 13.—Eight hundred miles off the British Columbia and Washington coast, another storm was rushing landward to-day on the tail of a gale and deluge which wrecked the freighter Iowa at the Columbia River mouth, drowned the crew and brought much property damage to western Washington.

The weather experts predicted more stormy weather for to-morrow. Storm warnings hoisted yesterday were ordered continued.

More rain for the lowlands, flooded in various sections of western Washington and Oregon yesterday, and more snow for the mountains were predicted.

The highest wind velocities of the week-end storm were reported by Oregon points. The velocity ranged from thirty-one miles an hour in Seattle to ninety miles along the Oregon coast.

Highways over low-lands were inundated. The Oregon Coast Highway between Bandon and Coquille was blocked by flood waters. Submerged railroad tracks at lakeside forced cancellation of yesterday evening's passenger train trip from Marshfield to Eugene.

BLUENOSE IS INVITED HERE

Famed Eastern Canadian Fishing Schooner May Accept Victorian's Invitation

Canadian Press

Lunenburg, N.S., Jan. 13.—Bluenose, queen of the fishing fleets, may leave her Atlantic home next summer to visit Canada's Pacific Coast for the first time.

Captain Angus Walters, skipper of the racing schooner, said to-day he was thinking over a proposal from a Victoria sportsman for a Bluenose visit to British Columbia waters. But he has not made up his mind yet.

If he takes it up, the Pacific cruise will be Bluenose's longest voyage in her thirteen years of fishing, racing and barnstorming. Two years ago Captain Walters took her to the Great Lakes for the summer—her first taste of fresh water—and last year he went to England with her. That last voyage was the longest so far.

LONG VOYAGE

But about the Pacific jaunt. "Well, says Capt. Angus, "I don't know They paint a pretty rosy picture, but we would have to sail six or seven thousand miles to get there. Anyhow, we'll see."

Bluenose is ready for the trip. After a thorough going over on her return to Lunenburg, she is as seaworthy and fast as ever, Captain Walters believes. Fast enough to defend her international fishermen's racing championship if necessary.

George Willis of the Enterprise Wharf, at the foot of Fort Street, is the Victorian who has extended the invitation to Capt. Angus Walters and the Bluenose. He told The Times this afternoon he would rather not make public his proposition to Capt. Walters until the latter definitely decided whether or not he would come to Victoria this summer.

Vancouver Bandits Make Haul of $1,000 When Bank Looted

Employees and Customers Herded Into Vault When Main and Prior Street Branch of Bank of Montreal Held Up by Two Men

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—A pair of gun-brandishing bandits held up three bank employees and two customers in the Bank of Montreal branch at Main and Prior Streets here to-day and escaped with $1,000 in cash. Whether the gunmen used an automobile in their escape is not known.

They herded their prisoners into the bank vault and shut the door, but did not lock it. However they had disappeared by the time the employees and customers were able to free themselves.

Shortly before 11 o'clock two men, each with a gun in hand, rushed into the bank. G. W. Richardson, manager, R. J. Birch, teller, R. J. Fowlie, ledgerkeeper, and Charles Davies and J. B. Thomas, customers, were herded into the vault and the door closed. The bandits then rifled the

MORE FILMS TO BE MADE

Central Films Limited Will Begin Production of Third Picture Shortly

Production here of the first of two more pictures by Central Films Limited for Columbia Pictures Incorporated is expected to begin within ten or twelve days. Kenneth J. Bishop, producer of Central Films, will leave for Hollywood to-night by air to make final arrangements.

It is understood that one picture will be a Royal Canadian Mounted Police story, and the other a western. Arrangements for costumes and horses are already under way.

Mr. Bishop said this morning that he believed these pictures were not intended for shipment to Britain under the present quota system, but for United States and Canadian release. He already has a separate contract for two more quota pictures for Columbia.

Central films have already made two pictures for Columbia, "Stop, Look and Love," starring David Manners and Maxine Doyle, and "Tugboat Princess," with Walter C. Kelly, Edith Fellows, Valerie Hobson, Clyde Cook and Lester Matthews.

All work on the two new films will be done on Vancouver Island, with a large part on location in various beauty spots. Inside scenes will be shot in the Willows Industrial Building.

Local Firm Gets Contract

Knott and Jones to Build $17,955 Federal Building at Sidney

Contract has been awarded by the federal government to Knott and Jones, contractors, for construction of a new federal building at Sidney, according to word received to-day by Alan Chambers and the Sidney Liberal Association.

While other federal projects are being held up, the Sidney contract was let as the result of persistent representations made from Sidney, it was stated.

The structure will cost $17,955 and will be located on Beacon Avenue, the main street in Sidney. The site was acquired by the Dominion back in 1914.

A two-story building is planned, of brick construction with stone facings. It will house the post office, rural mail delivery services and customs with extra space for other offices if needed.

The work will get under way immediately, it is understood.

ARCHBISHOP OF HALIFAX DIES

Most Rev. Thomas O'Donnell, former Bishop of Victoria, Passes Away After Brief Illness

Canadian Press

Halifax, Jan. 13. — Most Rev. Thomas O'Donnell, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Halifax and former Bishop of Victoria, B.C., died at the episcopal residence here to-day following a brief illness. He was sixty-one years old.

Although he had not been in his usual good health for some weeks, the archbishop's condition was not considered serious until January 9, when he suffered a hemorrhage of the brain.

He did not regain consciousness and Monsignor Thomas Curran, vicar-general of the archdiocese, himself ill, left a sick bed to be with him in the crisis.

Death was announced at the episcopal residence at 10.45 a.m., E.S.T. to-day (7.45 a.m. Victoria time).

NAVAL TALK IS POSTPONED

To-morrow's Session in London Cancelled As Japanese Consult Home Government

Associated Press

London, Jan. 13. — Tuesday's scheduled session of the International Naval Conference was postponed indefinitely to-night, and a Japanese spokesman said that delegation again would consult with Tokio.

An earlier dispatch said it was expected the Japanese delegates would make a new statement regarding their proposals for limitation of navies on an "equality" basis at the next session of the Naval Conference.

The Japanese and British delegates met to-day in a private session at the Foreign Office to discuss the former's moves.

After making their new statement, the Japanese would ask the other delegations for comment on it, it was said.

B.C. Farmers Plan Advance

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—The British Columbia Chamber of Agriculture will hold its first annual meeting here on Friday, January 17. Provisional President E. D. Barrow, M.P.P., will be in the chair and invitations have been extended to Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, and F. M. Clement of the University of British Columbia to attend.

LUMBER MILL FOR NANAIMO

Negotiations aimed at the establishment of a $250,000 lumber mill at Nanaimo took a further step forward to-day when representatives of the Thompson and Clerk Logging Company conferred with Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands.

The company seeks a lease of provincial property for the mill. Mr. Gray said the government would grant the lease, but first the company will apply to the Dominion Government for right-of-way in its booming grounds.

LOAN COUNCIL PLAN DEBATED

Several of Provinces Agree at Ottawa Conference to National Scheme if Barriers Overcome

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—Creation of a national loan council to control government financing coupled with the question of assisting the provinces to meet early maturing obligations, and the matter of tax collections loomed large in the discussions to-day by the Dominion-provincial committee on finance.

"We had a most satisfactory morning conference and that is all I can tell you at present," Finance Minister Dunning, convener of the committee, said at the lunch adjournment. The meetings are being held in private and will probably continue two or three days.

B.N.A. ACT DISCUSSED

It is understood a number of the provinces are willing to work out establishment of a loan council once the barriers set up by constitutional rights safeguarded in the British North America Act have been overcome. The B.N.A. Act also comes to the fore in the question of tax collections, major subject on the agenda.

Among those present at the discussions are: Hon. John Hart and Hon. Gordon Sloan, Provincial Treasurer and Attorney-General, respectively, of British Columbia; Hon. W. J. Patterson, Premier of Saskatchewan, and Hon. Charles Cockroft, Alberta Provincial Treasurer; Chester Walters, controller of finance, representing the Ontario Government.

"ROXY" DIES IN NEW YORK

S. L. Rothafel, Movie Producer Known to Many Theatregoers, Succumbs

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 13.—Samuel L. Rothafel, motion picture producer known to thousands of theatregoers as "Roxy," died to-day of a heart attack in his rooms in the Hotel Gotham.

"Roxy" was celebrated as a pioneer of the elaborate stage production, adding pretentious shows to the picture programme. He also was one of the first of the well-known showmen to broadcast his stage show.

At the height of his career he organized a building company which erected the huge Roxy Theatre in New York, a structure with a seating capacity of 6,221 and, advertised as "the cathedral of the motion picture," introduced a new bit of terminology to the industry.

BORN IN MINNESOTA

Mr. Rothafel, believed to be in the late fifties, was born in Stillwater, Minn. From 1900 to 1907 he served in the United States Marine Corps, retiring with the rank of major.

He entered the motion picture business in the Pennsylvania coal region, operating theatres in various cities,

JOHN F. HYLAN, NEW YORK, DIES

Former Mayor of City Succumbs at Home in Sixty-eighth Year

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 13.—John F. Hylan, farm boy who parlayed $1.50 into a comfortable fortune and twice was elected mayor of New York, died yesterday at his Long Island home of a heart attack. He was in his 68th year.

The former mayor had complained Saturday evening of feeling ill. Shortly after 1 a.m. yesterday his wife awoke to find him in the throes of a heart attack, from which he died a few minutes later.

A Democrat, Mr. Hylan first was elected mayor of New York in 1917.

During the eight years he was mayor of New York, John F. Hylan became best known perhaps as champion of the five-cent fare on the city's street railways and subway systems.

He used that as an issue in an effort to gain a third term in 1925, but was defeated in the Democratic primaries by James J. Walker, then a state senator, and at the conclusion of his second term resumed the practice of law.

Pennock Again Heads Order

St. John Ambulance Elects Officers; Proposes Highway First Aid

Dining around a fully caparisoned Knight of St. John in red cuirass with Maltese Cross on breast and sleeves, and on a white horse carrying the banner of the order, members representing all parts of British Columbia participated in the annual meeting of the St. John Ambulance Association at the Empress Hotel Saturday evening.

They re-elected as their president Charles B. Pennock of Vancouver. He has been an officer of the association since its inception twenty-five years ago, was vice-president, then president for three years. He dropped out for a year, but two years ago was called back and elected president for what has now proved to be another three-year run in office, at least.

A feature of the gathering was the report of A. J. Dallain, honorary secretary, showing an increase of 885 in the number of awards made during the last year, and recording the establishment of new centres at Chemainus, Victoria Lumber and Manufacturing Co. Ltd.; Premier, Premier Mines Community Club; Hillcrest, Hillcrest Lumber Company and Kamloops. Mr. Dallain's summary of awards during the year showed: Certificates 1,066, vouchers 207, medallions 149, labels 149, home nursing 46, junior nursing 48, junior certificates 1,157. Total, 2,842.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS

The gathering adopted W. H. Moore's resolution calling for a recommendation to be made in the right quarters that all members of the B.C. police force and all firemen be given instruction in first aid.

Rudyard B. Kipling, organizing secretary of the Vancouver centre, and Organizer Nixon of New Westminster pointed to the large number of accidents apart from industry where first-aid services would be an advantage. Reference was made to the increase in the number of automobile accidents on the Pacific Highway between New Westminster and Blaine. In most of these cases the police patrol was first on the scene, but the police were not always able to give first aid. Contrasted with these police, were the firemen of Vancouver, 325 of whose total of 350 held ambulance and first aid awards.

In his presidential address, Mr. Pennock spoke of the need of funds to carry out first-aid instruction, particularly in the schools, one school having 600 pupils who had applied for instruction. He thought the provincial government might assist with a grant to enable the organization to send someone through the province to establish St. John Ambulance centres.

H. W. Edwardson, honorary treasurer, presented the financial statement showing a surplus.

TROPHY AWARDS LISTED

Mr. Dallain's statement of awards in connection with the 1935 Dominion competitions set out that:

The Montizambert Trophy was won by the British Columbia Electric Motormen and Conductors' team of Vancouver.

The Wallace Nesbitt Trophy was won by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's team No. 2, of Trail. The B.C. Electric Motormen and Conductors' team of Vancouver came second in that competition.

The Tyro Trophy was also won by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's team No. 2, of Trail.

The Western Fuel Corporation team of Nanaimo was awarded second place in the competition for the Coderre Cup.

The South Wellington Women's First Aid Class came second in the Sir George Burn Trophy competition.

The Wallace Nesbitt Junior First Aid Trophy was won by the girls' team of Western Fuel Corporation of Nanaimo.

The Provincial Shield was won by the British Columbia Electric Railway Motormen and Conductors' team of Vancouver, with Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's No. 1 team of Trail taking second honors.

The girls' team of Western Fuel Corporation, Nanaimo, won the Leonard Shield.

SPECIAL MENTION

Special mention was made by Mr. Dallain of the award to Charles Murdock of the Certificate of Merit of the order of recognition of outstanding first-aid service rendered last January 29 while engaged in his regular occupation. The presentation to Mr. Murdock and the foregoing awards to the Vancouver teams were made at a special meeting in Vancouver attended by Attorney-General Sloan, who, representing the province, expressed public appreciation of the work of the association.

Mr. Dallain expressed regret over the passing of Dr. O. G. Ingham of Nanaimo, "an officer of the order, who always had the interests of the association at heart, who served gratuitously over a long period of years and much of the success of Nanaimo Centre in past years was due to his efforts."

It was announced by Mr. Dallain that the matter of establishing first-aid posts in strategical points on the main highways of the province was under consideration. It was hoped ways would be found to inaugurate this service on the Pacific Highway between Vancouver and the boundary.

Special mention was also made of the artistry of Mrs. Charles Wilson, who had created the dinner decoration of the Knight of St. John on a runner of greensward, with the display of red candles in branching silver candelabra.

Letters expressing regret at their inability to be present were read from Senator J. H. King, Lieut.-Col. A. M. Warner, Colonel Leeson and Dr. F. W. Brydon-Jack.

OFFICERS

The complete list of officers elected for the year was:

Honorary patron, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor; honorary vice-presidents, Hon. Gordon Sloan, Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Hon. George S. Pearson and Dr. F. W. Brydon-Jack.

President, Charles E. Pennock; vice-president, G. H. Stevens (Victoria); honorary secretary-tereasurer, H. W. Edwardson (Victoria).

Council: Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Mrs. W. Peden, Colonel J. L. Potter, Dr. T. W. A. Gray, Sidney J. Halls, all of Victoria; Lieut.-Col. Leeson, Lieut.-Col. A. M. Warner, Dr. Roy Mustard, T. H. Kirk, A. PASSING MOURNED

LATE ARCHBISHOP T. O'DONNELL

LIFE OF SERVICE

Rare administrative ability and a deep capacity for hard work lifted Thomas O'Donnell from the lot of an immigrant boy into the chair of a Canadian archbishop. A full life ended when he died as Archbishop of Halifax, direct spiritual leader of some 40,000 Catholics in Maritime Canada.

During his office at Halifax his territory expanded materially as well as spiritually. He was responsible, in the bishopric of Halifax alone, for the erection of eight new churches, several rectories, three schools and a new episcopal residence. In the city of Halifax two new parishes were formed in this five-year period.

Archbishop O'Donnell was among the first Canadians to pledge himself publicly to the Legion of Decency, organized to obtain cleaner entertainment, and he urged his charges to follow the example.

When he left Toronto to become Bishop of Victoria in 1924, he carried away a personal gift of $30,000 from well-wishers. It was characteristic of the then bishop that the money went toward furthering the work of the priests in the Coast diocese.

Five years after going to the west, he traveled back to Halifax, where he had landed years before from Ireland, to become coadjutor to Archbishop Edward J. McCarthy. He was on a trip to Rome in 1931 when the archbishop died and he succeeded to the archdiocese.

Mgr. O'Donnell was consecrated Bishop of Victoria at St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, on February 14, 1924. In April of that year he arrived in Victoria and was installed that evening at St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Bishop O'Donnell was popular in Victoria with lay members of his diocese, which comprised all Vancouver Island and with the general public of Victoria. While here he laid the corner stone of the new wing of St. Joseph's Hospital and planned on the erection of a new building for St. Louis College. In 1928 he went to the Eucharistic Congress in Australia, visiting China and Japan en route, and he also made his periodic visit to the Pope in Rome while he was stationed in Victoria.

ANNIVERSARY HERE

The twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood was celebrated in Victoria by the late Archbishop and he was honored at celebrations here and received congratulatory messages from all parts of Canada.

Born in County Kerry, Ireland, August 16, 1874, he was brought to Canada when a child and received his education in Toronto. He was ordained to the priesthood December 23, 1899, and worked in the Archdiocese of Toronto until he left for Victoria. He began his duties at St. Cecelia's Church and also served at St. Paul's Church and St. Mary's Church. In January, 1919, he was named pastor of St. Ann's Church.

Archbishop O'Donnell became widely known throughout Canada for his work in conection with the Catholic Church Extension Society. He was appointed president of that body in 1916 and re-elected in 1922. During that period he was editorial director of The Catholic Register. In May, 1923, he was made a domestic prelate by the Pope.

Archbishop O'Donnell succeeded Bishop Alexander MacDonald as Bishop of Victoria and when he left here for Halifax his place was taken by Bishop Gerald Murray, who is now Bishop of Saskatoon.

SECOND STORM NEARS COAST

In Washington the Chehalis and Newaukum Rivers overflowed their banks, flooded parts of Chehalis and hundreds of acres of farm lands. Aberdeen reported nearly three inches of rain during the twenty-four-hour period which ended at 5 p.m. yesterday. Although under water, the Aberdeen-Montesano Highway was passable.

In Seattle basements were flooded and numerous slides occurred.

to answer any question they might ask.

Mrs. Hauptman said her husband replied: "I will be glad to see anybody anytime and answer any questions or anything they might want to know that I have neglected to say."

"I have asked to have the mechanical lie-detector tried on me," his wife quoted Hauptman as saying.

Associated Press

Trenton, N.J., Jan. 13.—Bruno Hauptmann's lawyers, suddenly augmented by two Washington attorneys and bolstered by possible new evidence, swung vigorously to-day into a last-ditch fight against his Friday night date with death.

Retention of Attorneys Nugent Dodds and Neil Burkinshaw, who a year ago saved a condemned man, was accepted as an indication a new move was contemplated in the United States Supreme Court.

They were employed after the New Jersey court of pardons had refused Saturday to grant clemency to the man condemned as the kidnap-slayer of the Lindbergh baby.

RANSOM MONEY

Bernard M. Finnigan, a Chicago lawyer, flew here to tell Governor Harold G. Hoffman a story of three men who he said possessed $22,000 of the Lindbergh ransom money.

He had got the information, he explained, from a prisoner in a Chicago jail who said his conscience had been torturing him.

The prisoner asserted, Finnigan said, that he had paid $2,000 toward purchasing ransom bills at 40 cents on the dollar, but he did not get the money because he could not raise the rest of the price before his own arrest on a worthless cheque charge.

Finnigan decided to come here after Governor Hoffman had said he was interested. On arriving at the Camden, N.J., airport, the lawyer talked by telephone with C. Lloyd Fisher, chief of Hauptmann's counsel.

Trenton, N.J., Jan. 13 (Associated Press).—When Justice Thomas W. Trenchard fixed the date of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's execution for "the week of January 13," he added another to the series of "thirteens" that have marked the Hauptmann case.

It was on March 13, 1932, that Dr. John F. Condon made his first contact with the ransom extortionists.

It was thirteen minutes after 11 a.m. that the jury retired to consider Hauptmann's fate.

He was convicted in February, 1935—on the thirteenth.

His conviction was affirmed by the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals, thirteen judges hearing the case.

Hauptmann was resentenced to death by Justice Thomas W. Trenchard on December 13.

There are thirteen letters in the names of David T. Wilentz, Attorney-General, who prosecuted him; Edward J. Reilly, who defended him unsuccessfully; and Robert Elliott, whose duty it will be to execute him.

There are thirteen letters, too, in the name of Governor Harold Hoffman, who presided over the Court of Pardons which announced it had denied Hauptmann clemency last Saturday at 13 minutes after 5 p.m.

Will "the week of January 13" prove for Bruno Hauptmann the unluckiest "13" of all?

Changed Mind And Left Ship

Seattle Seaman Left Doomed Ss. Iowa at Longview Because He Did Not Like Long Trips

Seattle, Jan. 13.—Frank Eakin, young seaman who shipped on the ill-fated freighter Iowa, changed his mind the last minute and left the ship at Longview Saturday and thus escaped by a fraction the death of his thirty-three comrades, drowned when the Iowa sank off the Columbia River.

Yesterday when in other stricken homes the word of death was being broken, the telephone rang in the home of the widowed mother of Frank Eakin at 1921 W. Grayson Street.

"I changed my mind. I'm back in Seattle," he told her.

He did not tell her then of the wreck of his ship and the death of his shipmates. She learned that later.

"It was an act of God, a miracle," said Mrs. Florence Eakin. "When I asked him why he had left the ship, he said because he had decided the trip would be too long. He is a boy who loves his home, and he dreaded the long trips away. So he came back here, and is alive, alive! But, oh, those other mothers! I am so sorry for them."

Mrs. Eakin has seven children, and all four boys are seamen. Frank, who is thirty-one, has been at sea ten years.

CUTTER IN DANGER

An even greater loss of life was narrowly averted when the coastguard cutter Onondaga veered toward Peacock Spit and was barely able to inch away from the danger zone. She was unable to get close enough to shoot a lifeline aboard, and left when the commander, Captain R. Stanley Patch, ascertained no life existed aboard the remnants of the Iowa's broken hull.

The last view of life aboard the ship was that of forms scurrying up rope ladders. Then gigantic breakers shut the doomed vessel from view. When it reappeared it was as a ghost raising from too-familiar scenes.

NO CHANCE FOR LIFE

Mariners agreed no human being survived the waters on the shallows north of the Columbia River entrance, site of the Iowa's grounding. Captain Patch and A. G. Siniluoto, North Head Lighthouse keeper, said it appeared impossible any man aboard the freighter could have lived, no matter what efforts he put forth.

Wreckage from the Iowa littered the coastline. Out in the pounding surf a watchers could see floating bodies of men who died in the disaster.

A Canadian, Philip J. Nael of Ladnes, B.C., was a member of the crew.

OTHER SHIPS IN GALE

While the 3,564-ton vessel Iowa was smashed into wreckage from terrific pounding on the shoals, several other vessels were imperilled as the storm howled off the Oregon Coast.

The steam schooner Siskiyou limped into port with water in her hold and a gaping hole in her side.

To the south the Canadian vessel Rochelle damaged her steering gear fifteen miles off Cape Arago, but made repairs and proceeded south after losing part of her deck cargo.

Originally the Rochelle, out of Vancouver, B.C., for San Francisco, was mistaken for the Norwegian freighter Romulus. The merchant ship Lumberman stood by the Rochelle while repairs were made.

The freighter Vinland also was reported to have lost deck cargo in the same area.

To the south, at least three other vessels were in trouble, although none was in a serious condition.

CONTINUES VOYAGE

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—The Kingsley Navigation Company revealed to-day it had received a wireless message from the coastal vessel, Rochelle, reported in distress off the Oregon coast, that repairs to her steering apparatus had been effected and she was proceeding slowly towards San Francisco.

The message stated the Rochelle had been hove to behind Coos Bay for thirty hours, but that the trouble was of a minor nature, and she was "proceeding slowly."

Victims of Shipwreck

Associated Press

Portland, Ore., Jan. 13.—Harold M. Jones, shipping commissioner for Oregon, and the Sailors' Union of the Pacific, to-day listed the crew of thirty-four who went down on the freighter Iowa off the Columbia River mouth yesterday, as follows:

Captain Edgar L. Yates, Portland.

First mate—Alfred G. Kreiger, 614 North Broadway, Aberdeen, Wash.

Second mate—Fred W. Whiteside, Oakland, Cal.

Third mate—Donald Graham, Seattle.

Carpenter—Marion J. Perich, New Orleans.

Boatswain—August O. Meyers, Portland.

Seamen:

Phillip J. Nael, Ladner, B.C.

Johannes Aben, no address.

Otto Doehring Newberg, Ore.

Wilbur W. Welter, Newberg, Ore.

Donald McLeod, Seattle.

Donald Kidd, Pepin, Wis.

Ordinary seamen;

Milton A. K. Olsen, Seattle.

Walt Spencer, Chester, Pa.

Edward Mislok, Baltimore, Md.

Chief engineer—Karl C. Bendixen, Bellevue, Wash.

First assistant engineer—V. Cloherty, Tacoma, Wash.

Second assistant engineer—Theodore J. Frison, Portland.

Third assistant engineer—Charles Ogan, San Pedro, Cal.

Deck engineer—Elven Severine, Portland.

Oilers:

Edward Wolfsehr, Portland.

James McHenry, twenty-six, Philadelphia.

Tom Barrett, thirty-two, Portland.

Firemen:

Homer T. Mercereau, Seattle.

James W. Welsh, Braddock, Pa.

Wiper—George Marr, Atlanta, Ga.

Steward—Ed Cooper, Tacoma, Wash.

Chief cook—Frank Hluick, Groveton, N.H.

Second cook—James Houston, Los Angeles.

Messman—Hubert Browne, Los Angeles.

William Tardy, Muskegon, Mich.

Messboy—Allan E. McCaughan, South Tacoma.

A widow and a child wept together when hope finally was abandoned for the sunken Iowa and every soul aboard her.

They were the wife and thirteen-year-old daughter of Karl G. Bendixen, chief engineer. And had wives been permitted to make the trip, Mrs. Bendixen, too, would have been on the list of missing.

"I left the ship yesterday, in Longview," she said. "These seafaring men are home so little. I wanted to be with him as long as I could. So I drove down to Portland for a few last days with him.

"Even then it was storming terribly. I was hoping the captain and pilot would not take the ship outside the bar. I was frightened, disturbed. But he was not afraid and tried to cheer me.

"He has weathered so many storms. He comes of a seafaring family. His father went to sea before him, and his uncle, and the sea was in his blood.

"We were often aboard, Mary Ann and I, when he was in port."

British Fleet Starts Manoeuvres

[illegible] Home Fleet will leave on what the Admiralty termed "a spring cruise" off the coast of Spain and Portugal in a day or two.

IN GREEK WATERS

Four British destroyers at Piraeus, port of Athens, are scheduled to perform a series of naval manoeuvres starting to-day.

The movements taking place in the next few days will increase British naval strength in the Mediterranean zone at the time of the League of Nations Council meeting, January 20, at which the question of an oil embargo against Italy will be considered.

FRENCH MANOEUVRES

In addition, a total of ninety-two French warships will engage in manoeuvres in the western Mediterranean about the same time, while the French Atlantic fleet will be near Casablanca, southwest of Gibraltar. The battleship Revenge, already recalled from the Mediterranean, has been replaced by the battlecruiser Renown, which is at Gibraltar.

Engaging in the "spring cruise" are the battleships Nelson and Rodney, most powerful in the world, the aircraft carrier Furious, the cruiser Cairo and the twenty-first destroyer flotilla.

The planned manoeuvres at Piraeus recalled that Greece was one of the countries from which Britain sought assurance of aid, in the event of an attack by Italy on the British fleet rising out of the sanctions situation.

GREEK OFFICERS WATCH

Athens, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press-Havas).—Crown Prince Paul of Greece and all the commanders and lieutenant-commanders of the Greek fleet to-day watched Great Britain's war manoeuvres in the Aegean from the decks of British destroyers.

The invitation was sent the Greek government as a gesture of friendship in return for the courtesy accorded the British squadron in the use of the port of Piraeus as a temporary base.

Opinion in Italy has been sharply critical of this move, which places strong units of the British fleet behind the main line of Italian naval defence.

Families Mourn Crew Members

Loss of Ss. Iowa Off Columbia Brings Tragedy to Mothers and Wives

Seattle, Jan. 13. — Desolation and grief descended on Seattle homes yesterday evening as the word was broken to them that their valiant seafaring men had gone down with their ship, the Iowa.

"I had a premonition of death—but I thought it was my own. And now—it is my son! My strong, fine son," Mrs. Laura Olsen, mother of Milton Olsen, young seaman, said. She is a widow.

So convinced was she that her premonition was of her own death that yesterday morning she made her will, leaving her humble cottage to Milton, this son who went down to the sea.

"He was the best boy in the world. He helped me all the time. He went to sea when he could not get other work. But he had worked on the water before, mostly in Alaska. He was home for Christmas," she said.

Milton Olsen was twenty-six and had lived in Seattle seventeen years. He had been at sea a year.

GRANDMOTHER INFORMED

At the apartment home of Donald Graham, his mother, Mrs. Harriet M. Graham, took the news of the tragedy bravely, while his aged grandmother, Mrs. Annie Macintosh, eighty-three, sat with her hands clasped.

"He was such a stalwart, laughing lad; a boy who loved sports, swimming and football," said the mother. "He played on the Queen Anne High School team, and at the University of Washington until he hurt his knee. He had worked a time with the state highway department. Then went to sea."

He was twenty-seven, and had been at sea five years, and was proud of being made third mate. He had no fear of storms.

cash drawer of the teller' cage, obtaining $500 in bills and a similar amount in silver.

The bandits took a gun from the bank as they made their escape.

This is the second time Richardson has figured in a holdup at the same bank. On December 17, 1934, four bandits held him up in much the same manner and escaped with $1,800. They were captured five days later in a gun battle on New Westminster bridge as they were enroute towards the border.

AUSTRALIANS SEARCH FOR LOST ELLSWORTH

Veteran Antarctic fliers, Flight-Lieut. G. E. Douglas (left), and Flying Officer A. M. Murdoch, will be in charge of the flying operations of the expedition which has left Melbourne for the Ross Sea in search of the vanished polar explorer, Lincoln Ellsworth, and his pilot, H. Hollick-Kenyon of Winnipeg. These photos of the Australian fliers were taken at Point Cooke, Australia, shortly before the relief ship sailed.

Britain for Oil Sanction

sponsible quarters said cabinet consideration of oil sanctions will be largely a formality, and that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will go to Geneva ready to pledge unwavering British support with other League members in further sanctions.

To-day's meeting of the defence requirements committee with Prime Minister Baldwin was the first since before the Christmas holidays.

ITALIANS PLAN NEW SEA

Associated Press

Assab, Eritrea, Jan. 13.—An Italian engineering commission arrived here to day to complete plans for creation of a "new sea."

This sea will admit ships directly to the eastern Aussa region of Ethiopia, where Francis M. Rickett and other promoters say there is oil.

The engineers expect to let the Red Sea flow into Danakil's sunken "death valley," which in some places lies 500 feet below sea level.

Thus, they would bring Eritrean ports 100 miles nearer the interior from this southern port of Eritrea, for transportation of the thousands of tons of materials being brought from Italy to occupied Ethiopian territory.

Engineers surveying between Massaua and Assab plan to dig one canal to the north and one to the south to maintain the level of the "new sea." They hope the water's flow will widen the small man-made channels sufficiently to admit ships to the interior waters.

In this way it is planned to inundate a now worthless territory 100 miles wide and 200 miles long.

Engineers estimate two years and 1,500,000,000 lira will be required for the job, transforming a large desert area into fertile regions and lowering the temperature, which is now often 145 degrees fahrenheit.

NO PEACE SCHEME

Brussels, Jan. 13 (Associated Press)—Premier Paul Van Zeeland's office denied flatly to-day recurrent reports the Belgian premier was working out peace plans to be submitted to Italy, Ethiopia and the League of Nations.

By ALBERT W. WILSON
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Addis Ababa, Jan. 13.—Italian planes are bombarding Ethiopian camps and villages on the south-western front daily, a European observer reported to-day after flying back to the capital from a visit to Ras Desta Demtu.

The greatest recent aerial assault was an attack a fortnight ago on Negele, 190 miles northwest of Dolo, where fifteen planes dropped 500 bombs, but only six persons were killed and forty wounded, this neutral source said.

FIRST NEWS

This was the first authentic news to reach here of aerial activities in the south since the bombardment two weeks ago near Dolo, in which the Swedish Red Cross unit was destroyed.

The observer said the present aerial attacks were directed at the camps and villages of Borona and Bale, about 250 miles northwest of Dolo, far behind the Ethiopian front lines.

The people of Ethiopia hailed the advent of the "little rainy season" as victory over the Italians—the only real victory of the three-month-old war.

Rudyard Kipling In Grave Condition

Mrs. Kipling accompanied her husband to the hospital, remained in an ante-room during the operation and returned later to the hotel.

Mr. Kipling's condition at 1.15 p.m. was termed satisfactory.

BIRTHDAY AT HOME

The noted author of ballads and tales of adventure in India observed his seventieth birthday anniversary December 30, at his secluded home in the village of Burwash, Sussex.

He gave every indication then of good health, but the Middlesex Hospital announced to-day:

"We regret to state Mr. Rudyard Kipling was taken seriously ill during the night and was admitted to the Woolavington wing of the Middlesex Hospital this morning, where an urgent operation was performed."

Farnham, Eng., Jan. 13.—Ian Robertson, well-known actor and stage manager, died yesterday at the age of seventy-seven. He was a brother of the actor Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson.

FORMER M.P.P. DIES

Lachute, Que., Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—Harry, Slater, former Conservative member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly for Argenteuil and former mayor of Lachute, died here Saturday after a long illness. He was seventy-two years of age and this year was made a member of the order of the British Empire in the King's birthday honrs list.

NEW DOMINION VOTERS' LIST RULES

Expected Annual Revisions Will Be Abandoned As Result of Survey Now in Progress

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—Abandonment of annual revision of the federal voters' list was being predicted here to-day as a result of a survey of members of Parliament conducted by Harry Butcher, former Liberal member for Last Mountain, Sask.

The government commissioned the former member to investigate all phases of election machinery and one of his first actions was to send out a questionnaire to all members. Mr. Butcher announced that 90 per cent of the members replying favored abandonment of anual revisions, which cost about $500,000 a year.

NO CLOSER LISTS

Almost unanimously members for rural ridings took exception to closed lists, Mr. Butcher said, and were joined by many urban members. They agreed too many voters were left off the list and the machinery was too costly and cumbersome.

Both the closed list and annual revision were provided by the Bennett government in a general overhauling of the election machinery. If the Butcher survey is any indication, both will be abandoned in the next year or two, certainly the annual revision.

A British Columbia veteran suggested the law prevent eastern newspapers and agencies publishing election results until the far western polls are closed.

NO FIFTY-CENT PIECES COINED

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—While the majority of Canadians would not refuse to accept a few gratis, the 50-cent piece is not a popular coin in Canada. This word comes direct from the Canadian Mint, where Canada's coinage is struck.

Out of more than 12,500,000 coins struck last year, not a single 50-cent piece was issued by the Mint.

Artificial Radium Machine Perfected

Cornell University Apparatus Costs Only $5,000, Says Announcement

Associated Press

Ithaca, N.Y., Jan. 13.—At a cost of $5,000 Cornell University has a machine capable of making artificial radium as a substitute for the real stuff, which costs $40,000 a gram.

Completion of this machine, a cyclotron, the second of its kind in existance, was announced here at the week-end. The Cornell cyclotron is already in operation.

The original cyclotron, a machine which uses a $200,000 eighty-ton magnet to produce 10,000,000 to 15,000,000-volt rays, was made by Dr. E. A. Lawrence at the University of California.

His assistant in that work, Dr. M. Stanley Livingston, built and installed the new Cornell cyclotron. It is a simplified smaller magnetray machine. Its cheapness promises to make this new type of scientific instrument available for general use in medicine and atomic investigation.

These machines make a good many different kinds of artificial radium. The one best known to the public is radio-active table salt.

BEER PARLOR THUGS HUNTED

Police Comb Vancouver for Three Who Escaped With $129

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—Police were scouring the city to-day for three youthful gunmen who raided the Stratford Hotel Beer Parlor Saturday night and escaped in a stolen taxi cab with $129 cash. It was the second such holdup on the hotel in six weeks.

Sam Cole, taxi-driver for the Star Taxicab Company, picked up a man on the outskirts of the city and after visiting two other addresses where two other men were picked up, was attacked by the three and tied up. With one of the bandits at the wheel, the car was driven to Seventh Avenue and Clarke Drive, where the men deposited Cole in a vacant lot. He was released by a passer-by later and reported his loss to police.

Meanwhile the men drove to the hotel and entered the beer parlor, all armed with black automatics. While two held the three bartenders and four customers, one a woman, at bay with their guns, the other went behind the counter and punched open the cash register.

Apparently disappointed at getting only $128 in the till, one asked, "Where is the rest of the money?" He was told there was no more, and the three departed by a side door and drove off in their stolen machine.

The cab was recovered by police yesterday in a residential district.

On November 30 last a similar holdup was perpetrated on the same hotel when three gunmen escaped with about $150.

R. CHURCHILL IS CANDIDATE

Opposes M. MacDonald in Scotland By-election for British Commons

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Jan. 13.—The government to-day faced an uphill struggle in its efforts to find seats for Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald and his son, Malcolm, the two cabinet ministers defeated in the general election.

Ramsay MacDonald, former Prime Minister and now Lord President of the Council, was officially nominated Saturday as candidate for the vacant Scottish Universities seat. It will be a three-cornered fight, with a Scottish Nationalist and a Labor candidate also running.

In Ross and Cromarty, the Scottish riding where Malcolm, Dominions Secretary, is seeking re-election, the situation is more confused.

R. CHURCHILL NOMINATED

A local Unionist caucus resented the injunctions from party headquarters to support Malcolm MacDonald. Instead, on Saturday evening they officially nominated Randolph Churchill, a son of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill.

The Dominions Secretary has been chosen as its candidate by the local Liberal association.

Two—possibly three—other candidates are expected to run. They are Provost Roderick Smith of Edinburgh, Independent Liberal; Hector McNeil, Socialist, and perhaps J. Douglas Scott as a Social Credit candidate.

Randolph Churchill, who was defeated at Liverpool West Toxteth, in the general election, addressed the local Conservative caucus Saturday evening and was promptly adopted as their candidate. Churchill then propounded what he termed as a "fair and courteous" offer to the Liberals. He said he would stand down if the Liberals would adopt a candidate both parties could support.

MOTHER AND SON END THEIR LIVES

Associated Press

Washington, Jan. 13.—The poison death of a mother and her twenty-one-year-old student son in what police believed to be a suicide agreement was investigated to-day, with indications that the woman's fear of war may have motivated the deed.

The bodies of Mrs. Capitola Koltes, forty-five, and her son, Robert W. Ashworth, sophomore at George Washington University, were found yesterday in her hotel room. A note requested that someone from the National Council for the Prevention of War speak at the funeral.

First elected mayor in 1917, Mr. Hylan during his first term—in the stress of war excitement—successfully fought every attempt to increase the car fare. That was one of the principal issues of his second campaign and, because of the militant stand he took was re-elected by a plurality unprecedented in a city election up to that time.

When he first ran for mayor, Mr. Hylan was opposed by the late Purroy Mitchel, a Democrat, who four years previously had been successful on a fusion ticket and was seeking re-election. It was one of the bitterest campaigns on record, but Mr. Hylan won by a substantial majority. His term was marked by many violent controversies, chiefly due to his stand on the car fare issue.

Finally, a legislative committee was appointed to investigate his administration. The committee held many sessions over a long period and while it made certain recommendations to the Legislature, the mayor's administration of affairs as a whole, was unchanged.

During his entire term Mayor Hylan kept the five-cent fare issue constantly before the public and in his campaign for re-election pointed out the possibility of an increased fare in the event of his defeat. The issue became a popular one with the people generally with the result that the mayor defeated his Republican opponent, Major Henry H. Curran, by a plurality of 418,000.

Mayor Hylan was born on a small farm at Hunter, Greene County, N.Y., April 20, 1868. Orphaned when he was a child, he went to New York when a young man and obtained employment on the old elevated railroad, in the days when the engines were operated by steam. In time, he achieved one of his early ambition—to become an engineer. After attaining political prominence he continued his interest in his first calling and became an honorary life member of the engineers' local union.

While employed on the elevated Mayor Hylan married Miss Marion O'Hara, who influenced him to study law. He began reading law at night and finally concluded his course at the New York Law School, where he was graduated in 1897. The same year he was admitted to the bar. The Hylans had one daughter.

During most of his two terms in the City Hall, Mayor Hylan ran afoul of a majority of the metropolitan newspapers, but was consistently supported by the newspapers owned by William Randolph Hearst.

DURING THE DOMINION ELECTION campaign some bright mind conceived the idea that the election prospects of the Conservative party could be improved by a radio broadcast feature known as "Mister Sage." The feature consisted of a dialogue between "Sage" and an idiot boy and contained vulgar and slanderous references to Mr. Mackenzie King and other prominent Liberal leaders. Apparently the originators were sure that the poor stuff they were sending over the air would win votes for Mr. Bennett in carload lots, but the sequel shows that it was one of the many factors in the overwhelming defeat of the Conservative party.

According to the Ottawa correspondent of The Winnipeg Free Press the programme really originated with a private radio station in Toronto. Within twelve hours of the first installment the Radio Commission notified the sponsors that slanderous attacks on public men would not be tolerated and that the programme must be sponsored in an honest, straightforward way. It also showed that the feature was nothing but party propaganda. The originators then agreed to edit the dialogue script more carefully and named Mr. R. F. Wright of an advertising concern of Toronto as sponsor, but this was not satisfactory. Appeals were next made by those behind the precious expedient for the government to prevent the Radio Commission interfering, but they were unavailing, and finally Mr. Wright had to get out of the picture and "Mister Sage" was nailed to the sponsorship of a "Group of Conservatives."

As for the feature itself it was of the cheapest and nastiest variety. For its leading character its promoters imported one Vaughan Glazer, a stock company actor from the United States, a somewhat unique proceeding for a travesty which was designed, with other things, to show that its target, the Liberal leader, was unduly friendly to the neighboring republic. There is something ironically humorous in the fact that a political stratagem replete with slanderous attacks upon the head of a great Canadian party in such circumstances should emanate from Toronto of all places.

Parliament is going to investigate "Mister Sage." We hope the inquiry will be searching, not so much for the exposure of those who were connected with this contemptible piece of political tactics, as for the determination of such restrictions as will prevent any repetition of it. As for the promoters of it, they have the doubtful satisfaction of realizing that at the time they were doing their own party more harm than good, in the public reaction to this contribution to the prospects of the Tory campaign. It seems strange that Mr. Bennett, who must have been aware of these performances, did not use his influence to stop them, no matter whether he believed they would help him or not. In any case, if he had any sense of public opinion, based upon a sympathetic understanding of it, he should have known that if ever there was a political boomerang which was bound to drop upon the top of his own head, "Mister Sage" was one.

This is not the first time party strategy has defeated its own purpose. In some form or another there is something of the kind in every election campaign; there always are bright minds which devise ways and means of influencing the electorate for their candidates only to find that they have driven the public vote in another direction. If they, as well as aspirants for public office, would give the public credit for ordinary intelligence, if they would establish closer contact with the great body of the people, they would discover that often what might tickle their party organizations might be resented by enough voters to snow them and the candidates under. Electors not infrequently are humbugged, but there is a limit to their credulity, and when an exhibition intended for their gratification gets too raw it only arouses their disgust. There is such a thing as election bait whose stench can not be suppressed no matter how roseate may be its guise.

OUR OLD-WORLD ATMOSPHERE

SOME REPLIES TO QUESTIONNAIRES sent by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau to tourists who have visited this city urge that we should preserve a serene, old-world atmosphere unmarred by signs of commercial activity. That may be all right for tourists who spend a day or two here on their holiday vacations, during the two months or less of the tourist season, but what about the people of Victoria during the other ten months of the year? They can not live on old-world atmosphere, or on serenity unmarred by commercial activity. If they depended upon these for subsistence it would not be long before Victoria reverted to the dimensions of an Indian village.

A museum is an interesting place to visit, but it scarcely fills the bill as an all-year-round place of residence. We wonder what those visitors who, after a day or two here in the summer urge us to avoid business activity and try to make the community look like a sixteenth century set-up in a motion picture studio, would say if we recommended that they adopt a similar attitude in the places in which they reside, for example, in Seattle, San Francisco, Chicago or New York.

NEW PREMIER FOR P.E.I.

RESIGNATION OF THE GOVERNMENT of Prince Edward Island in consequence of the death of Premier Lea, of course, is merely a formality and will be followed by an invitation from the Lieutenant-Governor of the province to one of its members to form a new administration.

It will be recalled that during the election campaign of last summer Mr. Lea was not able to take an active part in the campaign because of ill health, but after the party of which he was the leader had performed a political feat in Canada never before even equalled—the capture of every seat in the Legislature—he naturally, as he regained strength, felt compelled to carry on and justify the confidence the electorate had reposed in him and his followers.

A short time ago, however, his medical advisers warned him that he would be much wiser for his health's sake to cut back to his farm and leave the strenuous duties of a leader in public life to others better physically equipped to discharge them. But Mr. Lea's conception of his obligation to the people of Prince Edward Island did not permit him to accept this advice.

The former Premier's disability lately grew more menacing and developed into such an acute form a few days ago that the end came with startling suddenness. His death will be a severe loss to Prince Edward Island, while the esteem in which he was held was shown by the numerous tributes to his worth which have been voiced by public men and the press all over Canada.

THE SEAPLANE BASE

THE CITY COUNCIL PROPOSES TO urge the Dominion Government to authorize the transfer from Esquimalt to the outer harbor of the terminal of the company which operates a seaplane service to the mainland, and which hopes to establish a triangular service with the inclusion of Seattle in its schedule.

This is a reasonable proposal, which should be adopted. The refusal of the former federal government to permit aircraft to operate in Victoria Harbor in spite of recommendations from its own aviation officials, not to speak of requests from the Council, the Chamber of Commerce and numerous other organizations, caused the loss of a base here which would have involved a considerable expenditure.

Ottawa's course was dictated by the steamship companies on grounds which were obviously of the flimsiest character. The Council should resume this agitation, and at the same time devote attention to the establishment of an air port here. It will not be long before a city without an airport will be as much of an anomaly as one without a railroad depot or docking space for ships.

"ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE"

WHEN THE HISTORY OF THESE troubled times comes to be written—if a historian can be found who has the strength for the job—one of its verdicts probably will be that this was the blossoming time and the midsummer heyday of public credulity.

Evidence to support that verdict is swashing about all over the landscape. But the keystone of the arch and the cap on the monument of it all is undoubtedly the Drake case.

This famous swindle has been aired in the courts and the newspapers over and over again. A city slicker ventured into the midwest some years ago announcing that the estate of Sir Francis Drake, Queen Elizabeth's famous old sea warrior, had passed down through his male descendants and had grown prodigiously with the years.

To-day, he said, it comprised practically all London and was worth untold billions; that he, the slicker, had the heirs under his thumb and was about to arrange a settlement of the estate; and all who contributed a dollar or so to defray the expenses would get their money back a thousandfold.

That anyone outside of an asylum would even listen to such a yarn is hardly credible. But victims came forward in droves and platoons to hand over their money to the slicker. No one knows how much he collected, but it kept him in luxury for years.

Detectives in the United States finally caught up with the slicker and sent him to prison for ten years. But did that stop the racket? Verily, it went on in a bigger way than ever.

People in poorhouses went in with their dimes and quarters; public meetings were held in small towns all up and down the Mississippi valley; the tale grew, until the victims were told that not only was London included in the Drake estate, but all of America as well. It was the pending settlement of the estate, it was said, that forced England and America off the gold standard.

It would be hard to think of a dizzier swindle than this. If ever a yarn had "pipe dream" written on its face, this was it.

Yet with the promoter of the affair actually doing time in a federal prison, and with every statement of fact blown sky-high, the thing is still alive; more, the suckers are still biting, and dreaming of cruel international plots whenever they are reminded that the law is trying to step on the scheme.

If hundreds of thousands of people can be found to believe such a yarn as this, and to sink good money in it, need we wonder that some old political panaceas often get sold to the electorate?

The death of Premier Walter Lea of Prince Edward Island will be regretted in many parts of Canada. He was a fine type of public-spirited citizen who counted no sacrifice too great to make for the welfare of his province, for which, in fact, he gave his own life.

Just Folks
by Edgar A. Guest

GOOD NATURE

This much I've learned along the road:
Good nature bears a heavier load
  With less of straining
And sooner comes to rest than those
Who daily magnify their woes
  With loud complaining.

I often hear the scoffers say:
"You cannot laugh a care away.
  So why pretend to?"
But I reply to those who scoff,
What woes does grumbling frighten off
  Or put an end to?

What brings the summer rose to bloom?
The sunshine or the days of gloom?
  When winds are howling
And cold and bitter blows the storm,
Can man keep either dry or warm
  By constant growling?

I do not claim that man can smile
And laugh at trouble all the while,
  For that were folly,
But this I know when rough the road
Good nature better bears the load
  Than melancholy

Loose Ends

It is really too dangerous to leap in the dark—the British fleet is easy chicken on a deck are contorted—and Mr. King is asked to help.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

LEAP

AT SOME ENLIGHTENED university in eastern Canada, the name of which I forget, they are going to hold a leap year ball and the ladies are going to invite the gentlemen, and call for them in taxis and give them flowers. This is nice as far as it goes, but the thing should go much further. As a matter of sociological research, the principle of leap year should be universally applied, if for only one day.

If for one day the male sex were to lose the superiority conferred upon it by an ancient and rather absurd convention, if women were given the power of initiative and men compelled to wait for their advances, the results would be important and appalling. The mind turns with loathing from the thought of a public ball in Victoria where the lads of this village had to stand about and wait for the girls to invite them to dance. Most of the successful men, the ones who show those universal signs of prosperity, the large waistline, the thin hair, the heavy jowl, the dominant look, would never dance at all. Callow and penniless office boys with pink cheeks, would be in universal demand, would rule society.

Indeed, the successful men with brains would seldom get any wives at all; just as the brainy women seldom get husbands, where the pretty half-wits invariably acquire good homes and bear our posterity. Hence the rapid degeneration of our race.

A leap year, rigorously enforced, would be a great thing to deflate the male ego, but would be too cruel. Men all have a streak of weakness and good nature in them somewhere. But women, with their ruthless natures, their implacable hates and smiling bitterness, their undying grudges and complete lack of scruple, would shortly involve society in universal feuds of violence and the world in general war. Probably we had better pass leap year up after all. Such a leap in the dark is too dangerous.

OSTRICH

SOME TIME AGO, with proper deference, I tried to explain here the reaction of the national capital of Canada to the Ethiopian unpleasantness, and particularly to the oil sanctions proposal of Dr. Riddell. A lot of people seemed to think I was expressing dangerous notions of my own, whereas I was merely trying to set down what had been told me by unimpeachable authorities at Ottawa. If I had set down my own notions they would have been much more dangerous than that.

Anyway, several people wrote to the paper about it and now I perceive a spirited attack on me in the mainland press. It concludes with the rousing assertion that in all Canada's foreign relations we must remember that the British fleet is our first line of defence on this coast, and all our policies should be shaped accordingly.

This sentiment, I judge, is widely shared. Whenever the question of Canada's participation in another world war is discussed, or its foreign affairs generally, people stand up to observe that the British fleet is our defence on this coast. Provincial statesmen of considerable eminence have often pointed that out to me. The fact that people believe this is just another evidence of the other fact that Canadians have never really thought about their foreign affairs, never had a foreign policy and never realized just what kind of a place they occupy in the world at large.

It might be as well for them, instead of foaming patriotism at the mouth, to look at Europe to-day, at most of the British navy concentrated in the nearby Mediterranean with most of the French navy, merely to subdue Italy's fifth-rate crackpot. Even this concentration of sea power, so near to home, leaves Britain without the protection in the North Sea to which she is accustomed, with a powerful, re-arming and half-mad Germany always snarling there on her flank, with Europe always bubbling and steaming and likely to burst out at any moment.

The British fleet can never leave Europe in that condition and come around to the other side of the world to keep us in a state of jitters. The British people are too sensible to allow it, and the Canadian people have no right to expect it. We might as well understand a few obvious things like that and make our arrangements accordingly. So long as it is considered some sort of disloyalty to look at such things, to examine the map of the world and face the facts of life, Canadians shall remain in a state of national adolescence, a nation of ostriches with our heads carefully concealed in the sand of our Pacific Coast.

PROBLEM

A GRAVE PROBLEM of public behavior has been troubling me for some time. I refer to the fashionable posture of the modern woman. If you will look elsewhere in this newspaper to-night, at the advertisements for women's clothing, you will find that all the fashionable ladies pictured there seem to be flung about, contorted, their hands on their hips, their arms akimbo, their diaphragms twisted, their tummies thrust out, their backs dislocated in a most painful manner. You would think they had all been hurled out of an airplane and were struggling in mid-air.

The fashionable stance, so far as you can judge, is modeled after the figure 8, and the fashionable pose, with hands on hips and arms akimbo, is evidently modeled on the habits of two fishwives quarreling in a back alley.

Now these elegant manners have been carried into real life everywhere. In all fashionable assemblies, you will find the women thus flung about, twisted and bent, like broken dolls. You will find all backs curved like the letter S and all diaphragms pushed hideously to the front as if they were something to be proud of.

The question of public importance is whether the advertisements came first or the women; whether the advertisements merely pictured the fashionable lady of our time or whether the fashionable lady has tried to remake her anatomy to conform to the advertisements.

Whatever the answer, both have failed. The advertisements, by doubling the length between the human hip and the human knee, and cutting the space from the knee to the foot in half, have utterly misrepresented the fashionable ladies who can't do these feats of surgery; and the women, despite all their contortions, their repressions, and thrustings-out never approach the standards. The whole thing is extremely distressing, is it not?

GRAVE ISSUE

OPEN LETTER to Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, P.C., Prime Minister of Canada:

"Dear Sir:—This is addressed to you on behalf of the entire adult male population of Canada, who unite herewith in petition to you regardless of party, religion or nationality. We, the petitioners, long-suffering, uncomplaining, believe that you are anxious to do everything possible to alleviate our unhappy lot. We believe that you are anxious to meet the needs of the country. We believe that you are anxious specifically to cut closely, according to our requirements, to smooth things out, to alleviate suffering. We believe that if you knew what the country needed you would manage somehow to supply it.

"Mr. Prime Minister, the adult male population of Canada hereby informs you that the great overshadowing need of the country is not a new fiscal system, is not social credit, is not more trade, is not an adjustment of the tariff, is not a new method of amending the British North America Act. These things may be important, but we, the adult male population of Canada, hereby inform you that the great overshadowing need of the country is a safety razor blade that is good for more than one shave. There, sir, is a problem, worthy of Liberalism.

"Yours respectfully, etc."

Delray, W. Va., Jan. 13.—Only a fire-swept mass of wreckage marked the spot to-day where an explosion killed five of a family of seven near here. Mrs. Gladys Davis Wolfe, about twenty-eight, and four small sons died yesterday.

URGES HOUSING SCHEME

To the Editor:—The extent to which the crisis in the social system under which we live has descended is revealed in the various manoeuverings of the ruling class through the medium of the press and in addresses of well-paid educators and social welfare experts. We have conferences of premiers, government experts, mayors, councillors of almost daily occurrence all endeavoring to find a means of spending the taxpayers' money with the least consideration for class which is the most deserving, and whose condition is the subject of commiseration and charity-mongering. While the acts of the political class in power in the United States (which we are proudly informed resembles that of our Dominion) are being declared unconstitutional with unfailing regularity, we find the same things being attempted in Canada. What matters it that the NRA, AAA, CCC, FERA, WPA, and all the long list of stopgaps are being superseded by more dictatorial edicts as long as we have not yet given our marketing acts, farm relief, works projects and other relief measures their place in the sun. If the adverse tourist trade for the province cannot be overcome by a retaining wall in front of the Empress (mecca for all small-time performers on the political stage), the stock market may prove to be the best means of bringing in new wealth to us. Meanwhile, close up the mines, factories, mills and lock the warehouses, the upsurge in business is a sign that we do not require the production of real wealth under this system. Federal loans and increases in relief grants are all we need to speed the coming of a new era.

But what of the unemployed workers and those suffering from speed-up and wage cuts, whose environment is becoming a matter of grave concern? Relief workers are put to work at cutting brush, cleaning ditches, etc., and are forced to live in disgraceful ramshackle abodes, many of which have reverted to the municipalities in this district.

Instead of works projects which have for their objective only the satisfying of a limited number of people whose value to the community is debatable, a housing scheme for the depressed elements should be initiated. We could then have at least a reasonable excuse for criticizing the trend of new order in Russia, which has evoked such varied comment as to its character and effectiveness. A housing scheme of this character could very well be planned and carried out with the use of the funds now literally wasted on useless labor, and could tend to raise the morale of the workers themselves. Finally, if the capitalist state is worthy of bolstering up, it should present a challenge to the new social order, which considers the health and morale of the workers the most important element of that society. Governments which fail to grasp the importance of such a departure from the old order must expect more widespread unrest, demoralization and consequent militant actions on the part of the declassed workers.

OAKLANDS AUDITORIUM

To the Editor:—In the report of the meeting of the City School Board published in your issue of Thursday, it is stated that the trustees, in considering the tenders for building the auditorium at Oaklands School, decided to recommend to the City Council that the lowest tender be accepted.

It may be just a coincidence that a member of the firm whose tender was the lowest, is also a member of the City Council, and chairman of the executive of the public works committee.

It seems to me, sir, that it is not in accordance with the generally accepted traditions of Canadian public life that this should be.

A member of either federal or provincial parliament is prohibited from accepting or seeking any public business, under pain of forfeiting his seat and in the recent civic election in Vancouver a candidate withdrew his nomination, giving as a reason, that the firm he was connected with, did occasional business with the city. I may be old-fashioned, but in my opinion this sort of thing (even if it is not illegal) is not calculated to elevate the standard of public service, nor to increase our respect for, or confidence in, our public bodies.

FASCISM, DEATH-RATTLE OF CLASS RULE

To the Editor:—In the year 600 B.C., in Athens, Fascism made its first appearance in society as a mode of government. This statement, though true, may come as a surprise to many individuals of to-day, particularly those who are ardent members of leagues against war and Fascism. On or about the above-mentioned date Greece was beset with strife and social upheavals, especially in Athens, due to the concentration of wealth and property into a few hands, and the enslavement of the common people for debt became so great and threatening that an uprising of the population promised to destroy the rich along with their property.

We are now in the twentieth century A.D., and after close on two thousand years of what some religionists, notably Oxford Groupers, call the soothing influence of Christianity we find ourselves, for precisely the same reasons as Greece 600 B.C., in the throes of Fascism. In their emergency the ancient Greeks called in Solon the Archon to take over affairs and try to steer the ship of state into calmer waters, if such could be found.

The rich wished him to make himself a despot and protect their property with his power; while the poor, in their simplicity, wished him to make a redistribution of the land.

In passing, it may be interesting to note how Mussolini and Hitler have acted in the interests of the working class. Where Solon found it impossible for the poor to pay their debts, they were wisely remitted; but the property owners, the few rich men, were allowed to retain their land. So we find that ancient Fascism did no more for the mass than the modern brand intends to do.

Civilizations may come, civilizations will go; but the workers are the essentials.

IMPRIMATUR.

APPRECIATION

To the Editor:—I shall be grateful for space in your paper to try to express my appreciation of the skilful nursing and kindness I received while a patient in Sunhill Sanatorium.

I had never heard of Sunhill until the day I was taken there, quite ill, but I found it a veritable haven of refuge after previous harrowing experiences. I feel that I should spread the news of such a place to the many others in Victoria who, like myself, live in rooms or small apartments where serious illness cannot be handled. During my illness I had the comforts of a home, combined with the advantages of a hospital but without the irritating features of either.

I remember with pleasure and thankfulness the sympathy and kindness and unstinted care that so hastened my recovery.

"THE FLIGHT OF CAPITAL"

To the Editor:—In his despatches to the American press, Lloyd George once said: "The western sky is dark with the flight of capital." A pretty metaphor and also a pretty myth.

Taxes on capital were increasing in England, hence the supposed flight. But where did that capital nose in, and where is the gap it left behind?

What is capital? By deciding on that we should have a better chance of judging of its ability to take wing and soar away. A lot of people have got it into their heads that money is capital, but they are quite mistaken.

Sound money consists of credit-

STUDEBAKER ON DISPLAY

Handsome New Automobiles Will Arrive To-morrow

The Studebakers of 1 36, which will be displayed at the Jameson Motors Limited, 750 Broughton Street, for the first time to-morrow, are literally built to "specifications" furnished by the motorists themselves.

Many months ago the management of the new Studebaker Corporation, all of them Studebaker veterans, decided that the Studebakers of 1936 must meet public demand as closely as was humanly possible. Consequently, a prolonged and extensive survey of drivers' desires and dictates was made. Thousands of drivers, young and old, men and women, were questioned. Their answers were carefully recorded.

Finally, with the study completed and the answer to the question, "what does the driver want?", in hand, Studebaker produced its new models for 1936. Everything indicates that the new cars will be unusually popular.

TWO GROUPS OF CARS

The Studebakers of 1936 appear in two groups—the Dictator and the President. The President is a deluxe automobile, designed, styled and trimmed by Miss Helen Dryden, famous New York artist and decorator, and is by far the most beautiful and luxurious automobile ever produced by Studebaker.

Each of the two groups of Studebakers will have the following body models: Three-passenger coupe, five-passenger coupe, St. Regis custom two-door sedan, St. Regis cruising two-door sedan, custom four-door sedan, cruising four-door sedan and convertible roadster. "Custom" sedans have a large baggage space in the rear. In "Cruising" sedans this space is still larger. The models mentioned are five-wheel cars with the extra wheel carried inside a baggage compartment.

The Dictator is powered with a new six-cylinder engine. The President has an eight-cylinder engine. Both have greater acceleration, higher top speeds and more economy than their predecessors.

Body designers who have studied the Studebakers of 1936 have pronounced them the "cleanest" of modern streamline designs; yet the cars do not possess the radical contours of the "tear-drop" models. They are ultra-modern in every respect, yet will not offend those who prefer to have their automobiles "look like automobiles."

The glistening chromium-plated radiators are narrow, slim and gracefully curved. They sweep outward and down into one-piece fenders of deep and efficient air-foil designs. Hoods are high and narrow and flow swiftly to the body proper, merging with delightful simplicity into divided windshield and panels of the one-piece, steel-reinforced-by-steel bodies. Body roofs are solid steel and of one piece. Rear contours swing down to the wide chromium bumpers with the symmetry of modern streamlining. There is genuine beauty in these rear contours, and all models have generous baggage space with spare wheels carried inside. Windows are broad and blend into the swift-running body lines.

MANY NEW FEATURES

Among the new devices that are given to motorists for the first time on the 1936 Studebakers is the automatic "hill-holder," a feature that is adequately described by its name. Automatic "hill-holders" permit drivers, whose cars are stopped on an upgrade, to remove their right foot from the brake pedal without the car backing down hill. Thus, the driver may apply his foot to the accelerator as the clutch is let in. This device seems certain to find many friends, especially among feminine drivers.

Studebaker engineers have devised a new rubber mounting of engines, which cradles them more efficiently and reduces engine vibrations to a minimum. It also eliminates wobble of gear shifts. New stiffness has been added to Dictator frames by the adoption of a "keystone arch" construction at the front. New fuel line location and insulation provides the most complete protection against "vapor lock" ever found on automobiles. Starting efficiency has been increased by a reduction in the gear between the starter and the flywheel. Cooling and muffling efficiency have been increased.

Coughlin Claims Bank Law Invalid

Detroit, Jan. 13.—Father Charles E. Coughlin said yesterday he believed the Federal Reserve Bank is unconstitutional on the same basis of reasoning by which the United States Supreme Court invalidated the NRA and the AAA.

Chemainus

Chemainus, Jan. 13.—The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid and Mission Circle of Calvary Baptist Church was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. F. M. Cook. Mrs. Plester and Miss Bessie Plester were hostesses.

Mrs. J. R. Robinson presided.

Mrs. Robinson read a letter from Miss Mattie Currie, Tuni, India, thanking the members for the White Cross bale.

Letters were received from Rev. W. A. Ward and Mrs. Ward, Jackson Avenue Mission, thanking members for two bales of clothing.

It was arranged to pay for the education of a student in India.

After tea Mrs. E. Eberts and Mrs. E. Perry rendered solos and Rev. Evan Danks gave piano selections.

On Thursday afternoon the monthly business meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Church of St. Michaels and All Angels was held in the Anglican Parish Hall.

Mrs. Walter Porter presided.

Rev. Eric Robathan opened the meeting.

It was decided to abolish card parties, sales of work and teas in aid of the church in future and a system of direct giving was launched.

Arrangements were made for the vestry meeting and social to take place on January 20, when Bishop Sexton and Mrs. Sexton will be present.

Mrs. Porter undertook the office of educational secretary until the end of March, and Mrs. Herbert Wilson and Mrs. Donald Stevens undertook the offices of junior superintendent and assistant.

Tea hostesses were Mrs. A. D. Aiken and Mrs. William Allester.

A meeting of the Union Library Committee was held in the Community Hall, Saltair, on Thursday evening.

William Hutchinson was in the chair. A ballot of the ratepayers was taken with Walter Porter as returning officer, and the vote went 100 per cent for the scheme.

Mrs. Sexsmith and C. Reed, who have been guests of their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reed, have returned home to Victoria.

PRUNED BRANCHES MAKE DECORATIONS

They are pruning the Japanese cherry trees now on Burdett Avenue, and the prunings which the gardeners have snipped make nice bouquets.

"The prunings come into bloom when they are put in water," said a young lady who seemed to be helping the gardeners clean up and had a bundle of what looked like dried sticks in her arms.

Though the twigs that have been snipped off may come into bloom first inside a vase, the fat buds on the cherry trees indicate that the trees themselves will not be far behind.

Some residents in the district believe that the cherry trees will be in bloom at the end of the week, which will be the earliest on record.

"BLACK EAGLE" HOME FROM WAR

Dusky Aviator Returns With $5,000 Wardrobe From Ethiopian Battlefront

New York, Jan 13.—Harlem disavowed the "Black Eagle," Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, who just returned, with a $5,000 wardrobe, from the battlefronts of Ethiopia. As a matter of fact, Harlem wants very little of the natty flier who bid Emperor Haile Selassie farewell in order to come back to Lenox Avenue.

So the "Black Eagle" is packing off with his 100 made-to-order shirts, 100 neckties, twelve business suits, two tuxedos, twenty hats, genuine beaver coat (valued at $750), ivory-topped walking stick, and is retiring to the country. Harlem does not care much for the flashy Colonel Julian because the "Black Eagle" does not care much for Ethiopia's chances in the present hostilities. He plans a lecture tour on this subject.

The "Black Eagle" has also mentioned to newspapermen that he is seeking a fast, sleek airplane for a good-will flight around the world. He has made no specifications about whom he will represent in the expedition. But he emphatically denies that Italy is his sponsor in such a plan.

The last time Hubert Fauntleroy Julian set out on a sensational airplane junket, he landed, ingloriously enough, somewhere in the East River, which is a taxi-ride's distance away from Times Square.

DRUGSTORE ROBBED

Vancouver, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—Removing a pane of glass from the door of the Rex Prescription Pharmacy, Nelson Street, burglars looted the premises over the week-end and escaped with cigarettes valued at $20 and $5 in cash.

FATALITIES MAR WEEK-END

Duncan Man Presumed Drowned and Ladysmith Youth Logging Victim

Canadian Press

Duncan, Jan. 13.—Two fatalities marred the week-end here, the victims being W. R. Hattie, presumed drowned, and seventeen-year-old B. Hulme, fatally injured in a logging mishap.

Hattie, one of Duncan's younger businessmen, left Friday night for Maple Bay on a fishing excursion. His launch was found Saturday moored in Maple Bay and nearby was his upturned dinghy. It was believed he had fallen from the dinghy while rowing ashore. Dragging operations failed to locate the body.

Hulme, a Ladysmith youth, died in Duncan Hospital Saturday night as the result of a head injury suffered Friday at Camp Three, Youbou, Lake Cowichan, where he was employed on logging operations.

Found Coins In Repairing Home

R. E. McGregor Discovered Worcester Token Under Sidewalk, and Three-cent Piece Beneath Strip at Foot of Wall

R. E. McGregor, 632 Raynor Avenue, brought two unusual coins to The Times newsroom to-day. He found the coins some time ago, while repairing his home.

The first, a penny token issued by the city and county of Worcester in 1811, was discovered underneath a sidewalk which Mr. McGregor was tearing up for repairs.

The second, which had slipped underneath the quarter-round strip at the bottom of a wall, is a three-cent silver piece of the United States, dated 1852, and bearing stars representing thirteen states.

Woman Struck by Car Is Injured

When struck by an automobile at the corner of Douglas Street and Hillside Avenue on Saturday evening, Mrs. Mary Garden, eighty-five, 2954 Bridge Street, suffered several rib fractures and a broken thigh. She is now in St. Joseph's Hospital with Dr. Walter Bapty attending her.

According to a city police report the accident occurred shortly after 5 o'clock, and James Brett, Grant Street, was the driver of the car.

Suffering from shock and a head bruise, believed to have been caused by a fall on the car tracks at Cloverdale and Douglas Streets, Mrs. Myme Newby, 145 Battleford Avenue, was taken to St. Joseph's soon after Mrs. Garden.

Mrs. Newby was found lying on the car track by a passing motorist, who took her to a nearby store. Dr. A. C. Sinclair was summoned and ordered her removed to hospital.

Langford

The fourth of the series of contract and auction bridge parties will be held on Thursday, January 16, at 8 o'clock in the Women's Institute Hall. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments served.

Miss Cecil Temple, who has been a patient in the Jubilee Hospital, has recovered sufficiently to return to her home, "Twin Alders," Langford Lake.

An executive meeting of the members of the Prince Edward Branch No. 91 Canadian Legion, was held on Monday at the home of the president, A. G. Mackie. Details of the recent tombola were given, the financial result being satisfactory. E. R. Johnson, secretary-treasurer, announced that the annual meeting would be held on Monday, February 10.

The annual vestry meeting for the parishioners of St. Matthews Church will be held on Wednesday, February 15, at the vicarage at 8 o'clock. A report of the year's work will be given and wardens elected for this year.

COMING TO VICTORIA

Halifax, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—Major C. C. Thompson, M.C., V.D., second in command of the Prince Edward Island Highlanders, was chosen by fellow officers of Military District No. 6 Saturday evening to represent the division at the annual meeting of the parent organization, the Canadian Infantry Association, at Victoria, B.C., February 27.

VICTORIA COLLEGE NOTES

Ernest Bishop, president of the Students' Christian Movement, was welcomed on Tuesday, after attending the quadrennial meeting of the Students' Volunteer Movement at Indianapolis, Ind. Mr. Bishop was the official representative of Victoria College at this great gathering of over 3,000 students from all parts of the globe and which was guided by such great leaders as the Archbishop of York. Description of the meeting and the topic of the discussions held by the various "seminar groups" will be given when he addresses the college movement next week.

Through the efforts of Mme. Sanderson of the faculty, students will be able to see another French film, spoken entirely in that tongue. This will be the second of a series of French films to be shown here, as they are conceded by experts to be highly beneficial to students of this language.

Preparation for the annual Kiwanis Cup tussle between College and Victoria High School rugby fifteens commenced on Wednesday, when organization of the "rep" team was started. Bink Drummond, George Whittaker, Hank Hudson, Victor Moore and George Dunlop will be the heavyweights added to the present intermediate team to build up the squad which will defend the cup against the 1936 High School challengers. College have held the cup for one year and will field another crack team this year.

"Reorganization" was the topic of discussion at the initial meeting of the Men's Discussion Club on Friday. Previous meeetings of this group have been quite informal and impromptu, but this year it was decided to develop a more highly organized society. John Garrett suggested that an executive be chosen to guide the activities of this body. John H. McCabe added that debates with other institutions would give more scope for discussions. John McCabe was elected president with George Whittaker as secretary. George F. Gregory, president of the Students' Council, advised the group on the formalities of the college constitution regarding the organization of societies.

College badminton players have won all their matches but one in the fourth division of the Lower Island Badminton League, and are now only one point behind the leading Y.M.C.A. team, and early next week these two teams will clash for leading position.

KINSMEN HEADS TAKE OFFICES

Cecil U. Luckhart, president, and 1936 officers of the Kinsmen Club were officially installed at a stag dinner in the Empress Hotel Saturday evening.

District Governor Archie L. Smith was in charge of the ceremonies, assisted by other local district officers.

Those taking office were: Mr. Luckhart, Edward Smith, secretary; Harry Ellwood, treasurer, and Howard Tyrrell, recorder. Assisting in the installation were: George Fatt, P. J. Mulcahy and D. Arthur Poyntz.

The evening concluded with entertainment, to which the following contributed: Walter Miles, Pat Mulcahy, Stanley Martin, Edward Sanders, A. J. Helmcken, Dr. Poyntz, Ron Whittington, Archie Smith, Wilfred B. Dillabough and pupils of the Russian Ballet School.

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

Of the 5,000,000 new transpacific airmail stamps printed by the United States, fewer than 2,000,000 are said to be of collectible value, and most of these are sold out.

Collectors have turned to the poorer remainders for position blocks, in the belief that no more of this particular type of stamp will be printed and that it is bound to go up in value, whatever its condition.

Another valuable set of stamps, in connection with the first transpacific airmail flight of the China Clipper, is that which the Philippine government overprinted in gold for this particular occasion.

The return of the China Clipper disappointed many collectors who expected return covers which they had dispatched on the Clipper's westward flight. This mail could not be handled by the Manila postal authorities in time to catch the plane on its way back, so it had to be held up for the return of the second ship, the Philippine Clipper.

Revenue collectors should watch for the potato tax stamp. Uncle Sam's latest innovation. There are two classes of these stamps, one for tax paid, the other for tax exempt.

Return of King George II to the throne of Greece has brought out the first stamps under the new monarchy. These are two values of the 1933 series, surcharged with the date of November 3, 1935, when the king was recalled by popular vote, a crown and new values. Two postage dues also are surcharged.

CHINESE A.Y.P.A.

The Chinese branch of the Anglican Young People's Association held its first meeting of the year on Friday evening. Rev. C. Lee opened the meeting with prayers and a Scripture reading from St. Matthew's Gospel. Three new members, David Leong, Robert Lee and Lillian Mar, were welcomed and admitted into the branch, the president performing the initiation. Mr. Lee gave a few words of encouragement and advice to the new members. This was followed by a long business session.

The Chinese A.Y.P.A. will celebrate its first anniversary on February 21. A large A.Y.P.A. shield has been presented by four members of the branch in honor of the occasion. All members are desirous of making this a successful celebration to which all A.Y.P.A. members of the city will be welcomed.

January 24 being Chinese New Year Day, the next meeting will take place on January 17 at the Mission Hall, Cormorant Street.

"VAGABOND" TO ADDRESS CLUB

Women's Canadian Club to Hear First-hand Story of Russia

On Friday, January 17, the Women's Canadian Club will hear an illustrated address by Mr. Willson Woodside of Toronto on the intriguing subject of "A Philosophic Vagabond in Russia." The meeting will be at the Empress Hotel as usual.

Mr. Woodside started traveling shortly after graduation from the University of Toronto six years ago, and has been at it ever since.

Hir first trip was as conductor of a tour party which finished with a month's cycle trip to the Pyrenees.

On his second trip he covered over 3,000 miles on a bicycle, through France, Germany, Austria, Italy and Switzerland. This was the pre-Hitler year.

The next year, after crossing on a cattle boat, studying England's industrial areas and attending the World Economic Conference, he entered Germany, still fomenting with the Nazi revolution. His first week was in the home of a storm trooper. Further tripping extended over to Vienna and Prague and up to northern Norway.

In 1934, the next year, he spent much time in Germany, being in the middle of the Nazi blood purge of June 30. Crossing over into Vienna he was in the midst of the Dolfuss killing and Nazi "putsch" on Austria. The summer finished with a visit to the Saar.

This year, crossing to Italy in a small tramp steamer, he traveled through that and other Mediterranean countries, in his usual informal fashion, up through the Balkans into Russia, thousands of miles in Russia in third class with the common people, out into Memel, through Germany, France and England and home again.

Mrs. W. H. Wilson will be the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. C. C. Warn.

Of wide interest was the marriage quietly solemnized at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock between Mary Carlyle, elder daughter of Mrs. H. R. Hammond, Victoria, and of the late Mr. Hammond, and Mr. John Meredith Rockingham, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rockingham, of Millstream, V.I. Canon A. E. deL. Nunns officiated in the presence of a few relatives of the bride and groom. The bride, who was unattended, wore a smart suit of grey-blue tweed. Mr. John Beddall of Vancouver was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Rockingham left later for Seattle, and on their return from their honeymoon will live in Victoria.

Anniversaries Call for Music

Birthday and Wedding Celebration Parties Feature Empress Supper Dance

Request numbers, many of them in honor of birthdays and wedding anniversaries, were popular on Saturday evening at the Empress Hotel weekly supper dance.

"Dancing with my Darling," for Mr. Maurice Ellis of Shawnigan Lake; "My Hero," for Mr. George Preston, "When I Grow too old to Dream," for Mrs. George Burns, and "I Love You Truly," for Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Neville, were among the special request numbers given by the Empress Orchestra, directed by William F. Tickle.

"The Music goes Round and Round," dance sensation of the day, held its place among the most popular airs contributing to the enjoyment of the dancers.

The supper tables were gaily spring-like with golden daffodils, white narcissi and potted pink primulae.

BAPTIST CHOIRS ENJOY BANQUET

The Emmanuel Baptist Church entertained the choirs of the First Baptist Church and Douglas Street Baptist Church. A very delightful evening was spent in group games, contests and music. W. H. Muncy, conductor of the Emmanuel Choir, was the master of ceremonies. At the close of the evening all sat down to a bountiful supper.

The banquet room was decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being yellow and pale green, and the tables were artistically arranged with yellow chrysanthemums and tall green tapers. During the supper hour Dr. A. S. Imrie, pastor of the Emmanuel Church, gave greetings and Mr. Muncy extended a welcome to the guests. Oliver Stout, organist and choir master of the First Baptist Church, and Frank Humphrey of Douglas Street Baptist Choir, suitably replied.

The ladies' committee composed of Mrs. W. J. Wilson, Mrs. C. R. MacNeil, Mrs. Don Smith, Mrs. Dave Stewart and Mrs. Ross Malu, were warmly thanked by Norman Maynard.

The evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

To Hold Initiation — Court Maple Leaf, A.O.F., will hold its regular meeting to-night, in the Foresters' Hall, when the new officers will conduct the meeting and hold initiation. It is hoped all members will be present. A social evening will be spent after the meeting and refreshments served. The sisters are asked to please help with a donation.

Woman Says She Is Judas's Sister

Canadian Press

London, Ont., Jan. 13.—A London woman, who, according to sworn statements of her relatives believes that she herself is "unworthy and is destined to hell and that her own brother is Judas Iscariot," was declared incapable of managing her own affairs in an order granted by Mr. Justice R. G. Fisher in court Saturday.

When counsel read an affidavit in which it was stated the women held the belief she was destined for hell, the judge said:

"There's nothing wrong with that: it's a good Presbyterian doctrine."

WILLMAN—JONES

St. Andrew's Cathedral on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, Rev. Father C. T. Albury performed the marriage rites for Ivy Phyllis, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jones of 371 Davida Street, and Mr. Alfred Willmann of Vancouver, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Willmann. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her gown of pale blue silk crepe. The bodice was cut V-shaped in the back and had long full sleeves, finished with tight cuffs fastened with minute buttons. The long full skirt flared into a short train and her veil of filmy white tulle was arranged to her head beneath a wreath of narcissi. She carried a sheaf of Calla lilies tied with large tulle bow. Her only ornament was a gold cross and chain, a gift from the groom.

There were three attendants on the bride, Mrs. J. Orrico, as matron of honor, wearing a gown of pink satin with hat to match; Miss Betty Iris Jones, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a frock of Nile green organza, with hat to match and little Miss Lorna Dorinda Davis, a niece of the bride, who made a dainty flower girl in a frock of pale yellow crepe-de-chine. Both the matron of honor and the bridesmaid carried a prayerbook, while the little flower girl carried a basket filled with daffodils.

The bridegroom was supported by Mr. Joseph Standbaker of Vancouver.

Miss M. MacKay presided at the organ and rendered the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" as the bridal party entered the cathedral. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Adele Ramsay sang "Ave Maria."

At the conclusion of the service a largely attended reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Jones, in a gown of navy blue satin trimmed with Venetian lace, assisted in welcoming the guests.

Early spring flowers were used in decoration throughout the reception rooms, and the supper tabe was centred with the traditional wedding cake, surmounted with a white mosaic vase which had also adorned the wedding cake of the bride's mother, twenty-nine years ago. Silver vases filled with rosebuds and carnations added to the table appointments.

Mr. and Mrs. Willmann left on the midnight boat for Vancouver, the bride traveling in a dress of purple and gold, a black Hudson seal coat and black velour hat. They will make their home at 1160 Comox Street, Vancouver.

WOMEN TO HEAR DR. A. PEEBLES

GARBO-COWARD STORY DENIED

Associated Press

Stockholm, Jan. 13.—A source close to Greta Garbo announced to-day the movie actress had authorized a statement that reports of a romance linking her name to that of Noel Coward, British playwright and actor, were "pure fabrication."

The Hollywood star and Coward met only "casually" during Coward's recent holiday visit to Stockholm, this source said.

Friends of the pair asserted that neither showed excessive interest in the other after this casual meeting.

CHORAL UNION HELD SOCIAL

Present Gift to Stanley Bulley As Token of Appreciation

The Victoria Choral Union shortened the regular rehearsal Friday evening at Memorial Hall in order to join with the cathedral orchestra in a social gathering. About 150 singers and players were present and greatly enjoyed the entertainment.

Herbert Kent, president of the Victoria Choral Union, made an efficient chairman, and announced the various items. An introduction stunt was followed by two musical games, for which Richard Eaton provded the accompaniment. Latent talent for verse-making was discovered in the contest, which required groups to write parodies on popular songs, and later to sing both song and parody. W. H. V. Davies acted as adjudicator, and awarded a succulent first prize to the team coached by Wilfred Ord.

Mr. Kent, on behalf of the Victoria Choral Union, presented a gift to Stanley Bulley, conductor, as a token of esteem and affection from the members. Mr. Bulley expressed his surprise and thanks in a few gracious words.

Following the serving of refreshments the evening was brought to a close by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

The committee in charge of the affair were Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, Miss Louise Noble, Miss Evelyn Brumpton, Herbert Kent, George Phillips, W. H. V. Davies, Lewellyn Jones and A. S. Miller.

The next rehearsal of the Victoria Choral Union will be held Friday, January 17. A good attendance of members is requested in order that the choir may be prepared to perform Brahm's Requiem on Wednesday, April 22.

Installation of Officers Held

PRINCE MAY AID

Associated Press

Porto Alegre, Brazil, Jan. 13.—The Prince of Wales was reported in Rural Federation circles to-day to be interested in a British proposal to build important meat packing plants here.

The prince would invest if the proposal were accepted by the government of the state of Rio Grande do Sul, it was understood here.

Governor Jose Antonio Fores da Cunha was known to be studying the British offer, which envisages a total investment of approximately $3,000,000 in three packing plants, a seaport warehouse and 250 railroad cars.

It was reported the governor, on his contemplated trip to Buenos Aires early this year, would discuss certain details with British meat interests represented here.

PIONEER IS 103 TO-DAY

Mrs. Felice Metoche of Windsor, Ont., Led Rigorous Existence

Canadian Press

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 13.—Regular routine, which has played such an important part in her long life, was observed by Mrs. Felice Meloche in celebrating her 103rd birthday to-day.

She arose at 8.30 after almost twelve hours sleep, and ate a hearty breakfast. Later she made her own bed, carried out her religious exercises. After a lunch there will be a two-hour siesta followed by some minor household duties. Then comes her third meal of the day with 9 o'clock sounding the retiring hour.

Mother of eight children, seven of whom are living, Mrs. Meloche has not always lived such an easy life.

Married at the age of twenty-one, to Joseph Meloche at Amerstburg, she had known the rigorous existence of the pioneer. In addition to helping her husband on the farm, she looked after the house, raised her family, tended a garden, knitted, braided straw and made soap from wood ashes.

PYTHIAN LODGES INSTALL OFFICERS

The Castle Hall, 1415 Broad Street, was filled to capacity with members, when the installation of officers took place for the ensuing term. The following were installed: C.C., Carl W. Stocker; V.C., C. N. Curtis; P. A. Hewison; M. of W., J. W. Casey; K.R.S., J. Trehchard-Clark; M. of F., H. R. Brown; M. of E., A. Manson; M. of A., S. J. Applegate; I.G., R. E. Stanley; O.G., W. E. Anderson. The installing officer was D.D.G.C. Bro. A. A. Hockley of Far West Victoria Lodge No. 1.

The Pythian Sisters' officers installed were as follows: M.E.C., Vera Mesher; E.S., Kitty Allison; E.J., Beatrice Marshall; Manager, Lesley Grant; M. of R., and Corres., Maude Carver; M. of F., Ivy Doncaster; Protector, Vera Barry; Guard, Catherine Guptill. The installing officer was P.G.C. Maude Haines.

The meeting was the best seen here in Victoria, for the last ten years, and proved that fraternity work is once again active in the Knights of Pythias. The incoming officers wore evening dress and the sisters were gowned in white, wearing corsage bouquets of red carnations, making an effective picture. A number of candidates received the rank of "esquire."

The meeting was followed by a social hour, when supper was served, and a few brief speeches brought to a close a most enjoyable meeting to all, especially pleasing was the large number of visiting members from upisland and outlying points.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

IF CHILD CRIES OVER HIS TOYS, THEN TOYS ARE NOT FITTED TO HIM

Toys should be an amusement, never an irritation, to the child. When toys refuse to do the child's bidding, his mother must decide what is wrong.

It may be a personal fatigue due to the allure of too many toys, all of which cannot be enjoyed at once; or, perhaps, the toy is so complicated the child is unable to get any personal satisfaction out of it. To help the child who grows tempery over his play, the parent may offer a verbal suggestion as to how to overcome the difficulty, or she may take the toy away and substitute another.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD CRIES

"I have a four-year-old who cries at everything that goes wrong. If some of his playthings won't stand up, he just cries and won't help himself," writes Mrs. S. M. C. "It doesn't help to take them away, he cries again next time. He has no playmates, could that be what is wrong?"

It is just as deplorable when a child can't play alone some of the time as for him to have no playmates at all. Both situations need correction, for companionship helps the child to learn how to play, not only with children themselves, but with toys.

CHOOSE TOYS WISELY

Perhaps if you will note the child's own particular interests—for climbing, or pulling, or riding, or throwing—you may be able to make a wiser selection of toys to satisfy these interests. You may have the leaflet, "Toys for Various Ages," by sending a self-addressed and three - cent stamped envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

In addition, I should be extremely critical of your own treatment of the boy. Too much punishment, too many orders, too little understanding of his own need for independence in play and action, may be at the root of his constant irritability. The crying child is advertising his dissatisfaction with things as they are. Change them.

ASSISTING IN FESTIVAL OF ART

Mrs. Charles Ozard, who is assisting Mrs. H. Davis in the staging of a one-act play "Sudden Death" as one of the interludes in the "Festival of Art," which the Gonzales Chapter I.O.D.E. will present at the Empire Theatre on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week.

Royal Oak

The regular meeting of the Royal Oak Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon in the Royal Oak Community Hall with Miss K. Oldfield in the chair. The treasurer's report was presented by Miss E. Phillips. A silver tea will be arranged for the opening of the new institute room. Plans for the children's Valentine party, which will be held Friday, February 7, were started. The fiftieth annual meeting of the institute followed with the reading of annual reports showing a very active and successful year. The financial report showed total year's receipts of $1,481.98 with expenditures of $1,359.02. In the president's report an outline of the year's work was given and a vote of thanks extended to the Solarium X-ray committee. Master Jimmy Miller presented Miss Oldfield with a bouquet of flowers. The following officers were elected: President, Miss K. Oldfield; vice-president, Mrs. A. D. Grieve; secretary, Mrs. K. Mead-Robins; recording secretary, Mrs. H. H. Reed; treasurer, Miss E. Phillips; directors, Mrs. A. D. Grieve, Mrs. F. Reeves, Mrs. H. H. Reed and Mrs. A. Rankin; local council delegates, Mrs. M. Napier and Mrs. J. G. Nicholson; Vancouver Island Horticultural Society, Victoria Horticultural Society, Mrs. H. H. Reed; delegates to local council for annual meeting, Mrs. M. Napier, Mrs. J. G. Nicholson, Mrs. H. H. Reed and Mrs. McQueen. Conveners of committees were named as follows: Public health and child welfare, Mrs. E. Braithwaite; education and better schools, Mrs. M. P. Monckton; community betterment, Mrs. E. Gilroy; agriculture, Mrs. B. Hoole; home economics, Mrs. A. Rankin; publicity, Miss K. Oldfield; institute work and method, Mrs. S. Dunnett; legislation, Mrs. M. P. Monckton. Mrs. F. Reeves, convener of Solarium X-ray committee, presented her report. Miss K. Oldfield presented Elizabeth Ann Prosser with an engraved baby spoon. The contract for the institute room was given to R. Harrison and W. Barker.

The fortnightly five hundred card party was held in Royal Oak Community Hall, under the auspices of the Royal Oak Women's Institute on Thursday evening, with seven tables in play. Prizes were awarded as follows: First, ladies, Miss B. Cuthbertson; second, Mrs. H. H. Reed; consolation, Mrs. B. Hoole; gentlemen, first, W. H. Benson; second, R. Ponsford; consolation, F. Bobbett. Hostesses were: Mrs. F. Cariss, Mrs. W. D. Coffey, Mrs. A. E. Campion and Mrs. H. Coton. An old-time dance will be held in the Royal Oak Community Hall on Friday, January 17, at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. J. H. Nicholson entertained at tea at her home on East Saanich Road, Monday afternoon. Guests were: Mrs. A. A. Bansomme, with Jean and Leila, Mrs. M. Thompson, Miss E. Goodhew, Mrs. M. Napier, Mrs. F. Miller and Jimmy.

P. M. Monckton, West Saanich Road, went over to Vancouver on Wednesday.

F. Bobbett, Old West Road, and his nephew, W. Wilson, have returned home after spending a holiday in Vancouver.

LONG SLEEVES AND HIGH NECKLINES ON DINNER GOWNS

Floor-length dinner gowns with long sleeves and high necklines are important again this season. Many are variations of the shirt-waist theme. One especially nice model, with extremely full sleeves and flaring hemline has an Elizabethan collar of starched lace. Important, too, are tunic dinner dresses. Many have plain crepe skirts and metal cloth tunics with either long or short sleeves.

POETS DROP LOVE THEME

Anthology of Feminine Verse Shows Little Interest in Subject

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER
Associated Press

New York, Jan. 13.—Cupid took a staggering blow on the jaw to-day from United States women poets—in leap year, of all times.

Of 1,652 poems in the 'Contemporary Women Poets" anthology just published, only eighty-two deal primarily with love—the sweet mystery of life or what have you, which makes the world go round.

Instead, many of the 1,311 women represented wrote about such workaday subjects as the drought in Arkansas, One lyric is sub-titled, "A Rhyme of the Relief Administration," and another tells what its author hopes to accomplish by her vote.

It may, or may not indicate romance is losing its grip on American womanhood.

Although the index includes "Late Love," "Light Love," and just plain "Love" three times, the famous four-letter word long regarded by poets as the cream in their coffee appears in fewer than twenty titles.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Bruno Hauptmann and Christopher Columbus are among the few men who inspired verse in the collection.

The book is one of the few American anthologies of feminine verse.

THONG SEAMED

The dashing leather costumes vogue is joined by Kathleen Burke, film star, with this rust colored outfit, designed by Voris. The suede jacket is accented with a criss-cross trimming of suede thongs which match the turned up turban of rust suede. The laced seams are made entirely by hand and add interesting detail to the leather outfit.

"STAY-SEATED" CHURCH STRIKE

Part of Congregation at Baptist Church in Wales Opposes Pastor

By GEORGE HAMBLETON

London, Jan. 13.—Worshippers at the little Siloam Baptist Church of Machen, Monmouthshire, have developed a new form of strike. It is a "stay-seated" strike.

During the singing of the hymns yesterday, part of the congregation remained seated. They refused to join in the Lord's Prayer. They ignored the collection boxes.

This curious episode is the latest development in a dispute which has dividend the congregation ever since the trustees called on Rev. Daniel Hughes to resign.

Mr. Hughes, a labor member of the Monmouth county council, says the trouble "appears to be political."

A week ago Mr. Hughes found the church door locked against him. Yesterday, howeved, his supporters followed him in a body to the church and he was able to conduct the service.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

The Y.W.C.A. Board of Directors will hold the anual meeting of the association on Tuesday, February 4. This will be a supper meeting for which a very interesting programme is being planned.

Members of the Y.W.C.A. board and committees are meeting with the P.E.O. on Thursday, January 16, at 2.30 o'clock, to hear Dr. Allon Peebles on the subject of State Health Insurance. This meeting is open to ladies who are interested in this subject.

The reading group have planned for another interesting course of six lectures, commencing on Thursday, January 30, at 2.30 o'clock. Miss Nan Eaton has arranged for the speakers, the first one being Mrs. Nellie McClung.

HOUSEHOLD TRAINING

The household training class, conducted in co-operation with the Provincial Department of Education, commenced studies on January 8 with an enrollment of twenty-two students. Six more have been added during the last two days, thus overreaching the limit of twenty-five.

The members of this class will also join in the general club activities and evening programmes at the Y.W.C.A.

The Senior Business Girls' Club met on Monday, January 6, for its regular monthly supper meeting. Plans for a course of six "Charm Talks" were discussed. January 27 was the date decided upon for the first talk, the final one being Monday, March 2. The course is to be open to any Victoria girls who are interested in coming and is free of any charge. The subjects included in the course are: "Personal Habits and Outward Appearance as the Expression of Personal Charm," "The Art of Conversation," "The Art of Being a Hostess," "Cultural Appreciation," "Being a Friend Among Men and Women," and "A Philosophy of Life for Youth."

On Monday evening the Y-Owenca Club spent an enjyobale time with Dickens. "The Christmas Carol" in play form was read by the members. The club planned and discussed interesting meetings for the new year.

Bruce McKelvie told a series of Indian legends at the Friday meeting of the Junior Business Girls' Club. The group of stories chosen were woven around places of local interest giving them a very special attraction for the girls. After the business meeting adjourned the club enjoyed games and dancing in the recreation room. At the close of the evening refreshments were served.

CLUB SUPPER

All "Y" groups are looking forward to January 23. A "club supper" is being planned to celebrate the first official gathering of the whole girls' department. A programme of songs and stunts is being arranged by the different groups.

The members of the Pirate and Versatile Clubs met Thursday afternoon for a recreational period. At the end of the afternoon the girls had supper around the fire in the club rooms, and later separated for their respective meetings. During the meeting of the Versatile Club Miss Olesen was announced as being the winner of the prize donated by Miss Barbara Stark. At the close of the evening the clubs met again and through the kindness of the Canadian Bakeries management paid a visit to the bakery. A profitable hour spent while the mysteries of turning out large quantities of bread in a short time were witnessed and explained.

The new Beginners' Badminton Class has had one lesson and is on its way to a good start. There is still accommodation for one or two members.

The membership of any of the above clubs is open to any girls who wish to join.

The Truth About Diet

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Your body contains enough iron to make five carpet tacks. That is quite a small amount, compared with the other elements in your system, but even this small quantity is an important ingredient of the red blood cells, and a means of conveying oxygen through the body and supplying it to the tissues.

As against the five carpet tacks of iron in the body, there is enough phosphorous to make 8,000 small boxes of matches, and enough sulphur to make 9,000 pencils. Most of this is in a mixture with about nine to ten gallons of water.

If your body is conducting its chemical system in an ordinary manner, only a trace of iron is lost daily during the process of digestion, exercise, breathing and similar functions.

It has been estimated that the total wastage in loss of iron amounts to about one-fifth of a gram, or 1-75 of an ounce. That is about the amount of iron that could be shaken easily off a rusty nail.

Recently investigators made a special study to see how much iron the normal human body requires each day. If you are normal, you require only enough to replace what you lose.

The very technical studies reveal that the normal person loses 5-1,000 of a gram. Since there are 425 grams in a pound, the amount lost is very small indeed.

Women may need more iron at certain intervals than at others, but even when they lose considerable blood they require only 9 1-10 milligrams of iron a day, which is about twice the usual amount. Ordinarily, there is little reason to take extra quantities of iron into the body.

Children are born with an extra reserve of iron as a protection against blood loss.

While iron in milk is not exceedingly large in amount, authorities in nutrition believe it is exceedingly beneficial in that form.

Foods vary in their iron content. Lean meat furnishes considerable iron, but not as much as liver and lamb kidneys. One egg will yield about one-tenth of all the iron needed by the body during the day.

Dried fruits are a good source of iron; so are the leafy vegetables, such as parsley, spinach and leaf lettuce. On the other hand, celery, cabbage, and head lettuce are not exceedingly rich in phosphorus or iron.

Once it was argued that raisins were a marvelous source of iron in the body, and therefore exceedingly healthful. Actually, considering the amounts of raisins eaten, they are not a particularly good source of supply for this essential element.

TO-DAY'S HEALTH QUESTION

Q.—What becomes of contusions? Do they disappear entirely? Do they become cancerous and have to be cut out?

A.—A contusion is the technical name given to a bruise. In the vast majority of cases, bruises disappear completely. To what extent a bruise may be predisposed to develop into cancer is something about which medical men differ.

McCormack's Son In Fine Debut

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 13.—Take a father's word for it, Cyril Patrick McCormack is a chip off the old block.

Only minutes after Cyril, son of John McCormick, the famous tenor, made his debut in Dublin, Ireland, as a baritone the other night, his father cabled his personal representative in New York:

"Cyril made sensational debut on wireless. Tremendous sensation. His voice broadcasts marvelously."

Forgiving an enthusiastic father his repetitive "sensation" at the discovery that Cyril had apparently inherited a fine voice, the New York representative announced the boy would have a United States debut in the near future, possibly within thirty days.

The Golden Feather

by Robert Bruce © 1935 INEA Service, Inc.

"How is he? Is he badly hurt?"

"Not so badly. Just a bullet through the shoulder."

"A bullet!"

Her voice was so startled, and her face, when Eve glanced over at her, was so suddenly white and shocked, that Eve bit her lip and fruitlessly wished she had not spoken.

"Why, yes," she said, somewhat uncertainly. "I thought you knew."

Jean was still staring at her.

"No," she said, her voice hardly above a whisper. "I thought he had been in an accident."

Eve smiled, rather grimly.

"He has," she said.

"I mean an auto accident."

"Oh." Eve paused. "No—"

Jean's hand was on Eve's forearm.

"Eve, please tell me what happened."

Eve disengaged her arm.

"Watch out—you'll make me swerve off the road," she said. Then, more gently, she added, "I don't know the details, Jean. We'll be there in an hour or so. Then you can ask him. I really don't know."

They drove on, with Jean huddled in her corner of the seat in a dismayed, bewildered silence. Once she asks, almost timidly, "Do you know what—what kind of an accident it was?" And Eve answered, "Honest, Jean, I don't. I didn't mean to startle you. Anyhow, don't worry—we'll be there pretty soon."

There was another silence — a rather long one. Once Jean asked if Eve's husband was with Sandy in Midlothian. Learning that he was, she added, "Are they in business together? I've always wondered. You know, I never did quite understand just what Sandy does."

Eve looked at her, wide-eyed, and seemed about to speak; but she checked herself, smiled softly, as if she had some private joke, and at last added, "Yes, they're more or less in business together." And a minute later she unexpectedly reached over and patted Jean's hand and said, "You're a good kid, Jean."

Late in the afternoon they passed through Midlothian, a tiny, sleepy farming community. A short distance beyond the town Eve turned off the road into a little lane and abruptly pulled to a halt before a pleasant white farmhouse.

"Here we are, kid," she said.

There was a lawn in front of the house, an orchard on one side of it and a cornfield on the other. A man came down from the porch to greet them. He was Mr. Lewis, Eve's dapper little husband.

"How's Sandy?" Jean asked anxiously, as he nodded to her. He grinned and said, "Oh, he's dying—to see you." Then he stopped grinning, looked at the heavy manila envelope which Mr. Montague had given her to take to Sandy, and said, "Got it?"

She looked down, following his glance, and saw the envelope in her hand. She had been unconscious of its existence.

"Oh, yes," she said. "I don't know what it is, but it seems to be important. Mr. Montague told me to give it to Sandy."

"Yeah," said Lewis. "Well, come on in and see him."

He led them into the house. A stout, red-faced woman in a faded house dress was setting the table in the dining-room; as they passed Lewis called to her to set two more places. Then they went up a flight of stairs and entered a cool, pleasant bedroom; and there propped up among pillows in a big bed, lay Sandy.

Jean ran to him, bent over, and kissed him. He reached up with one brawny arm and hugged her; and as she raised her head he looked fondly into her face, the old half-mocking light dancing in his eyes again, and she felt her doubts and worries fall away.

"So there you are," he said. "I knew you'd get here."

All she could find to say was, "Sandy—are you badly hurt?"

He grinned, and pointed to a bandage that swathed his left shoulder, visible beneath his pyjama coat.

"I'm all right," he said. "Kind of sore, but that's all."

"How did it ever happen, Sandy?"

He grinned again.

"Oh," he said, "another guy and I were out doing some shooting and he just pointed his gun in the wrong direction."

Lewis, loitering by the window, laughed. Sandy scowled at him. "Hey, you—scram," he said. "We don't need you."

The Lewises left, and Jean drew a straight-backed chair up beside the bed. Sandy saw the envelope in her hand, and reached out and took it.

"Oh, yes," he said. "There was this, wasn't there?"

He opened the envelope, drew out some papers, and glanced at them. Then he nodded, as if satisfied, put them back in the envelope, and slid it under his pillow. He laid one hand casually on Jean's knee, and began, "Well, baby—" when there was a step in the hall and a man came into the room.

He was a big man and he had reddish hair and expressionless eyes of a chilly blue. He looked briefly at Jean, and then asked Sandy: "Well, how about it? Got it all right?"

CHAPTER XXXI

Slowly, step by laborious step, the federal men followed a dim trail across the middle west. Larry Glenn and his two aides, Tony LaRocco and Al Peters, went up the national pike from the village of Maplehurst like bloodhounds on a trail, asking questions and dispaying little rogues' gallery pictures everywhere—in restaurants, filling stations, drug stores, hotels, garages, barbecue stands, anywhere that the fleeing robbers might have stopped.

And at last, by slow stages, their trail led them toward Chicago. It was not a clear trail; but, as Larry pointed out, the fugitives had a wounded man with them, and their first thought would be to get him to a doctor. Obviously—since, as the federal men had satisfied themselves, they had not taken him to any doctor along the way—they were heading for some doctor whom they knew well, some renegrade physician who lived on the fringe of the underworld and could be trusted not to give them away. It was logical to guess that they expected to find such a man in Chicago.

So, since the trail pointed toward Chicago anyway, the three manhunters gave up their combings of intervening cities and towns and headed straight for the metropolis.

Arriving there, they went at once to the Chicago offices of the Department of Justice, where Matthews, the agent in charge of the department's Chicago division, had had his men out for two days trying to find out if any stool pigeon or tipster had heard anything of the Jackson gang's whereabouts.

Matthews had two pieces of information for Larry.

The first, not of immediate importance, came from Washington. The fingerprints Larry's men had got from the window of the Maplehurst bank—fingerprints left there by the wounded gangster, who had steadied himself momentarily by pressing his hand against the glass—had been identified in the department's files. They were those of Sandy Harkins, who was now, by that identification, definitely branded as a member of the Jackson gang.

SECOND SECTION — VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, JANUARY 13, 1936 — SECOND SECTION

Montreal Canadiens Score Second Straight Win In N.H.L.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

PROFESSIONAL boxing has tumbled to such a low estate in the east that it no longer pays a performer to make a trip of any length unless Joe Louis is his opponent.

That is the principal reason why Jock McAvoy suddenly returned to England for the holidays and why Freddie Steele is highly content to ply his wearing trade on the Pacific Coast.

Under current conditions, McAvoy and Steele—there would be a match despite the disparity in poundage—can collect more coin on their home grounds than they can hope to make on what formerly was big time.

Steele, against formidable foemen such as Vince Dundee, whose jaw he broke, and Gorilla Jones, drew $18,000 and $17,000, respectively. The Tacoma Tagger drags down 30 per cent. Expenses are normal.

Steele, battling Babe Risko, whom he probably would flatten, would play to net receipts of $25,000 in Seattle. This for a non-title affair, with the 155-pound Steele stepping on the scales with lead in his hands or being made officially overweight in some such manner.

If Risko elected to put his American middleweight wreath on the block, the shot no doubt would draw $50,000. Madison Square Garden or any other arena could not begin to give the combatants shares of that kind of money at this time.

There is serious talk that Jimmy McLarnin is contemplating taking a final whirl as a middleweight. That would be right down Steele's alley. McLarnin and Steele would coax more dollars through the bucks office in Seattle than the Irishman, in the present set-up, could hope to with any other warrior elsewhere.

McAvoy, boasting the light-heavy and middleweight championships of England, is a light-heavyweight. He agreed to make 166 pounds for Risko the night he knocked the Syracuse Pole down a half dozen times and out in the first round, but bounced on the scales at 168½.

That is the gentleman Jimmy Johnston offered Steele in the Garden. Yes, sir, Johnston certainly was looking after Steele's welfare.

At that, Steele might belt McAvoy out, despite the undeniable class the Briton showed in flooring and outgalloping the highly regarded Al McCoy, who made a trick weight, and placing a lily in Risko's duke.

Freddie Apostoli, flattened by Steele in ten rounds in San Francisco, can put a few more victories under his belt and again wiggle his forefinger in the direction of Steele. When that time comes, you may look for another $25,000 gate.

Ray Actis, a San Francisco light-heavyweight with explosive knuckles, but who is a swinger, has been starching rivals up and down the western slope. Actis seeks an appointment with Steele, but will not agree to do 160 pounds. That is another possible party for the thunder-fisted Tacoman and some nice money, with expenses normal.

Lou Brouillard is well thought of on the Coast. Working against Steele, the southpaw would fill any fight hall in San Francisco or Seattle. Paul Pirrone is another good opponent for Steele in Seattle. So is Frankie Battaglia. Bouts between Steele and Pirrone and Steele and Battaglia would be old-fashioned punching parties.

If any promoter can show Dave Miller, manager of Steele, where his boy can better himself in the east, the Tacoma clouter will come a-hopping. Miller demands a guarantee, however.

Miller views the situation sensibly. McAvoy, the finest English warrior to invade these shores since Ted Kid Lewis, obtained a flying start in repelling the very formidable McCoy in what was considered a mild upset. With that build-up still hot, McAvoy climbed into action against Risko and drew only $8,000 net in the Garden. McAvoy's share was 20 per cent, or $1,600.

Little wonder that McAvoy came down with acute nostalgia. The Briton sized up the light-heavyweight situation and realized that he could make more money on home soil against less formidable opposition and with less expense.

The light-heavyweight class is in much the same condition as the middleweight in the east. It has been said that Steele could come to the Atlantic seaboard and fight himself into an attraction as McLarnin did. Across Wall, McLarnin found a natural set-up. His foemen were top-ranking Jewish idols with the favor of New York cloak-and-suiters.

There is only one way of enticing Steele to the Garden pronto. Just let Risko risk his American crown, or chuck Marcel Thil in there at 160 pounds.

That is the way the east can land the boy who perhaps is the most fiery-fisted middleweight the Coast has seen since Stanley Ketchel. Steele would be only too happy to accommodate either Risko or Thil at weight regardless of his percentage or the size of the gate.

Steele scored nine knockouts in thirteen starts in 1935. Freddie dropped Young Stuhley three times and Tommy Rios twice in taking decisions. The Tacoma lad repulsed Jones in ten, and took a decision from and knocked out Mike Payan. Other knockout victims were Baby Joe Gans, Indian Jimmy Rivers, Apostoli, Sammy O'Dell, Al Rossi, Dundee, and Swede Berglund.

Steele really should head east. A puncher like this chap is capable of doing most anything. He might even stir up some interest in middleweights, something that has not existed since Mickey Walker and Ace Hudkins had it out.

Joliat's Goals In Last Period Defeat Chicago

Score Is 2 to 1 in Hard Struggle; Detroit Smothers Maroons 6 to 0

RANGERS DROP TILT TO BOSTON

Maroons 3, Americans 2.
Maroons 0, Detroit 6.
Canadiens 7, Toronto 3.
Canadiens 2, Chicago 1.
Boston 6, Rangers 3.

Coming from behind with a speedy, determined team that has brushed aside an inferiority complex born of early season defeats and struck pay dirt in recruit material, Montreal Canadiens loomed to-day as a potent threat for National Hockey League playoffs.

For the first time this season they were just a hurdle from third place in the Canadian section, already awarded to New York Americans by most critics. A tough schedule they must wade through in the next two weeks probably will determine whether they have the resources to finish among the leaders.

Two week-end victories over teams they had never beaten before this season, pulled Habitants up to within a point of the Americans, who lost 3 to 2 to Montreal Maroons Saturday night in Montreal.

MAROONS ON TOP

First Canadiens swamped Maple Leafs 8 to 3 in Toronto, toppling the Torontonians from the Canadian division leadership for the first time in three years. After tagging after Leafs since Dec. 17, 1932, Maroons took over the top spot to-day.

Habitants went on to Chicago yesterday evening to make the week-end a clean sweep. With the veterans Aurel Joliat and Johnny Gagnon cast in hero roles, they came from behind to defeat Black Hawks in the third period.

Not so fortunate as their fellow townsmen, Maroons went on to Detroit from the victory over Americans to their worst beating of the season. With Doug Young, wing defenceman, uncovering a buried scoring punch, Jack Adams team whipped the Montrealers 6 to 0 yesterday evening.

The decisive win gave Detroit a five-point lead in the American division over New York Rangers who were defeated 6 to 3 by Boston Bruins in Madison Square Garden. Chicago trail Rangers by a point and Bruins are another half game behind Hawks.

CANADIENS CHEERED

Canadiens played so well in Toronto they earned the cheers of 9,000 fans who came to see their idols make short work of the cellar team. After a scoreless first period, Leafs backchecking system failed in the second and Canadiens rapped in four goals that gave them their margin of victory.

Joffre Desilets, Leroy Goldsworthy, Jack McGill and Pete Lepine all scored in that session. Charlie Conacher, Bob Davidson and Nick Metz tallied for the Leafs in a wild-scoring third session, but their efforts were offset by goals Joliat, Paul Haynes and Goldsworthy added to the Canadien total.

Joliat scored the two goals that gave Habitants their victory over Hawks, with Gagnon assisting on the second. They came late in the final period almost twenty minutes after Bill Kendall had put Chicago into the lead on Tommy Cook's pass.

Hooley Smith was the hero of the game at Montreal Saturday night, scoring two of the Maroons three goals. Obviously tired after their trip they made a poor showing against Wings.

Doug Young was top wing scorer with two goals and an assist, and Larry Aurie and Hec Kilrea got a goal and an assist each; Syd Howe and Herb Lewis counted the other goals. Wings got two in the first period, one in the second and three in the third.

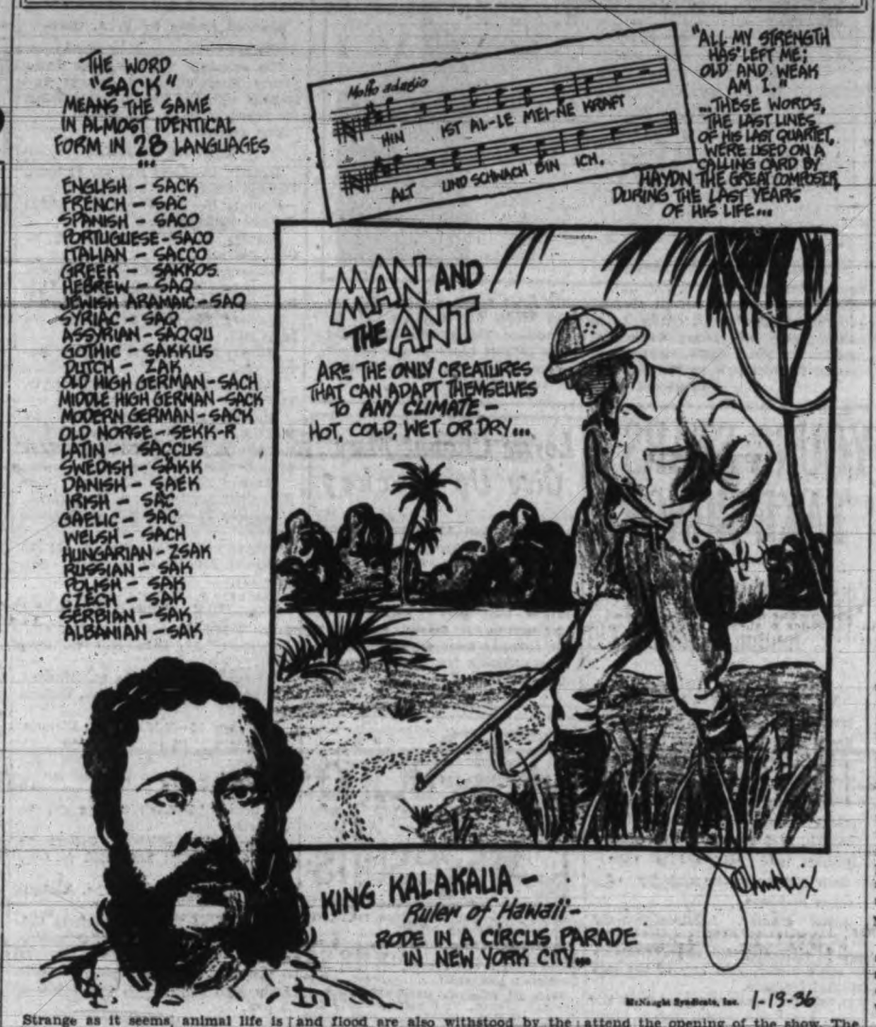
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



Strange as it seems, animal life is found on almost every bit of ground on earth—some especially adapted to the severe cold of the north and far south, others suited to the sweltering heat of the tropical areas. Man has been able to survive in the extremes of heat and cold—and the only other creature that can adapt itself to any climate is the ant.

Ants can withstand an amazing change in temperature without abandoning their homes. They simply burrow deeper into the ground when heat or cold threatens them. Drought and flood are also withstood by the ants in their nest and when a scarcity of food threatens it does not wipe them out—for the female can go for months without eating. Many authorities rank ants at the top of the insect scale. Like man, they co-operate in their communities for food, shelter and protection.

The great showman, P. T. Barnum, tricked a ruling sovereign into riding in a gaudy circus parade to advertise the Barnum circus opening in New York. Half a century ago when King Kalakaua of Hawaii was visiting in New York Barnum invited him to attend the opening of the show. The King accepted and Barnum quickly offered to provide a carriage for his royal guest.

The carriage he sent was a golden chariot drawn by six white horses. Behind it were other chariots, and on the sides were huge posters announcing that King Kalakaua was going to the circus. Instead of going directly to the show, Barnum had his royal parade wind around through New York's streets for miles before pulling up before the circus gates.

New Westminster Wins Title Rugby

Defeats Navy 6 to 0 in Match at Naval Recreation Grounds for British Columbia Senior B Championship; Wanderers Whites Still Undefeated

Power, speed and kicking ability carried New Westminster ruggers through a sea of mud to The Province Cup ownership on Saturday as a husky young team from the Royal City defeated the Navy, city senior B league champions, 6 to 0 at the Naval Recreation grounds, Admirals Road.

The visitors were full value for their win. They were in scoring positions virtually all through the game and with a little more technique should have increased their score materially. Ground conditions spoiled the game largely for the spectators. Both teams fielded good back divisions, but the condition of the ball and the playing surface made three-quarter runs the exception.

The boys battled through a scoreless first half. New Westminster broke the deadlock twenty-two minutes after the rest interval when Gordie Saunders, wing three, slid over the line on his chest for a try and the Royals moved up another three points when L. Rowley kicked a pretty penalty goal from outside the Navy twenty-five three minutes from time.

The visitors opened on the attack, using long and accurate kicks to put them in the Navy territory. Two minutes from the start they gained a penalty kick directly in front of the sailors' goal, but Gil Clay fizzled his attempt to drop the ball over.

MISSES BY INCHES

Ten minutes later the Navy missed a more difficult penalty goal attempt as they swung back into their close checking visitors. Cockerill's kick was inches wide on the effort.

New Westminster gained on short runs and their fullback's kicking to keep up pressure for the remainder of the half and several times came close to scoring.

The Royals gained another kick early in the second half but missed. Saunders received from R. Yeadon when the New Westminster pack heeled from the scrum after the Navy clearance was run back. Saunders raced for the corner, but was forced out before he could get across.

Play swung to the other side of the field, where J. Watt, New Westminster wing secured at the end of a backfield movement and ran over. He dropped the ball before he could get it down and the Navy cleared with a twenty-five-yard kick.

The visitors returned and maintained pressure, forcing three scrums on the Navy line before the sailors finally bucked back to their own twenty-five.

OPEN SCORING

Twenty-two minutes from half-time, Yeadon secured from the scrum near the Navy twenty-five and gave the ball to Saunders, who raced for the corner and slid over on his chest for the lone try of the day. Rowley missed the kick and the score stood 3 to 0.

The Navy went on the offensive following the score and gained good yardage on a New Westminster offside. They made several attempts at backfield movements but were bucked back by the strong mainland defence.

The Royals came down again on punts and Rowley secured a free kick near the Navy twenty-five. His effort sent the ball sailing between the uprights for the last points of the match.

The teams kept up a rugged fight for the remaining three minutes but could not change the score.

C. E Ley refereed and the teams lined up as follows:

New Westminster—Nesbit, Saunders, T. Thomas, A. Dagg, J. Watt, Gil Clay, C. Dagg, R. Yeadon, G. Haddon, Steele Moore, J. Yeadon, L. Rowley, L. Francis and Durkin.

Navy — Booth, Matthews, Paul, Christie, Clewes, Wurtele, Fest, Nelson, Cockerill, McGoldrick, Dallain, Groos, Conway and Bigelow.

Preceding the game, Hon. A. Wells Gray, acting premier of British Columbia, presented to Lieutenant-General Sir Percy Lake, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., the patron's emblem of the Old Contemptibles' Association.

The teams formed up in two lines to witness the presentation. George Thornhill, coach of the visiting team, is secretary of the association which authorized the presentation. Sir Percy responded fittingly.

INTERMEDIATES

In the intermediate league, Wanderers Whites preserved their string of victories with a 17 to 0 verdict over the Wanderers Blues, while Victoria College and the Fifth Brigade played to a 3 to 3 draw. Both games were staged at Oak Bay Park.

Buster Stewart led the Whites in scoring with one try, a penalty goal and a convert, while Grogan, Shepherd and Fraser also scored a try apiece.

A penalty goal by Shepherd about two minutes from the end of the match saved College from defeat at the hands of the young Gunners. The latter had taken an early first-half lead on Jack Cosier's successful penalty kick.

WESTS TAKE CUP SOCCER

Defeat Victory City 5 to 1 in Semi-final of McGavin Cup Competition

Playing on a ground that would have made a first-class duck pond, Victoria West wallowed through to a 5 to 1 victory over Victoria City in McGavin Cup soccer semi-final at the Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon. Considering the weather conditions the match attracted a good crowd which saw the Greenshirts turn in one of their finest performances of the season.

Despite the heavy going, the lightweight Wests took to the existing conditions in great fashion and during the ninety minutes treated the cash customers to some beautiful combination play. The shooting of the front line of the Greenshirts was not all it might have been, but the boys made sure of getting sufficient goals to win. The City halfbacks, backs and goalie Wally Rowe worked hard, but the forwards of the Redshirts had a bad afternoon.

The Wests held a 2 to 0 lead at half-time and in the second stanza rattled home three more counters, while Peers saved the City from a whitewash.

WESTS PRESS

From the start of play the Wests forced matters and with a good opening Brown lifted the ball over the bar on a pass from Watt. At the other end Restall blocked a hard drive from Price and cleared quickly as the forward raced in after the rebound. The Greenshirts' forwards kept Rowe busy as Bell and Wilkinson shot in hard drives.

Wests finally opened the scoring when Bell crossed to Watt, who in turn gave the ball to Wilkinson and the latter's bouncing shot found the net. Only a couple of minutes had elapsed when Watt made it 2 to 0, the centre-forward taking advantage of Halkett's miskick to beat the unprotected Rowe.

A penalty gave the Wests their third goal early in the second half. With a clear path to the goal, Watt was tripped by Gibbons. Bell made the spot kick good. Three minutes later Wilkinson added number four, converting another beautiful centre from Bell on the right wing. The City forwards rallied in an attempt to reduce the deficit but their attempts were broken up by the sure tackling backs and halves of the Wests.

The City finally broke into the score column when Peers took Price's pass and whipped the ball past Restall. Before the final whistle, Morgan added the fifth goal for the Wests on a splendid solo effort.

Al McKinnon refereed.

The teams follow:

Victoria City—Rowe, Halkett, Gibbons, Smith, G. Robbins, Moore, Pearce, Peers, Price, G. Payne, J. Payne C. Robbins.

Victoria West—Restall Reside, Laird Thompson, Barnes, Lorandini, Bell, Wilkinson, Watt, Morgan and Brown.

Ernie Mosher to Play in England

Halifax, Jan. 13.—Ernie Mosher, captain of last year's Halifax Wolverines, and one of the four players dismissed from Canada's Olympic hockey team, announced yesterday he had accepted an offer to play for the Wembley Canadians in England.

CRICKET PLAY ENDS IN DRAW

Failing Light Robs M.C.C. of Victory in Match With New Zealand

Dunedin, New Zealand, Jan. 13.—The touring Marylebone Cricket Club team resorted to novel tactics in an effort to force victory in the first unofficial test match with New Zealand to-day but the plan failed and the match was drawn.

Against the tourists' huge total of 653 runs for eight wickets, declared, the New Zealanders made 81 and 205 for seven wickets when bad light caused abandonment of the game.

In an effort to effect a draw the home batsmen put up a stonewall defence and the rate of scoring became so slow as their total neared the 200-mark that the M.C.C. players bowled byes and wides in order to get the benefit of a new ball on completion of the double century. Sixteen byes and eight wides, all counting as runs for the New Zealanders, were allowed to advance the score.

The plan was defeated when New Zealand successively appealed against the light. At this point with seven wickets down the team needed 367 runs to avoid defeat by an innings.

Red Martin Leads Dominoes To Win

Drops Through Eighteen Points As Victoria Cagers Whip College of Puget Sound 59 to 38; Visitors Led 23 to 21 at Halftime; Pantorium Victors

Lacking the power of endurance with which the Dominoes are blessed, a prominent College of Puget Sound quintette of Tacoma went down to defeat at the hands of the Victoria Dominoes, 59 to 38, in a heavy-scoring game, Saturday evening at the High School gym, in the top-notch tilt staged by the Victoria and District Basketball League.

The Pantorium women's squad had little trouble in downing Walter Yeaman's Unitys, when they scored a 44 to 17 victory in the preliminary fixture.

The Collegians proved themselves to be the locals' equal in the initial canto, which turned out to be plenty thrilling for the capacity crowd. As the teams reached the interval the Dominoes were trailing the Puget Sounders 23 to 21. Most of the scoring on this half was done on long shots.

The second half was a free-scoring event for the locals, who outscored their opponents 38 to 15. Tacoma just could not keep up their first half pace and tired badly.

FINE PERFORMANCE

Vaughn Stoffel, shifty forward, turned in a marvelous performance for the Collegiates and was high scorer with fourteen points. The crowd got a big bang out of the ease with which he manipulated the ball and scored with deadly accuracy from all angles. He left the floor a few minutes from time and received a big ovation from the fans.

Albert "Red" Martin was high scorer for the locals with eighteen points. Art Chapman was second with fourteen and Porky Andrews third with twelve.

The teams went into a 2 to 2 tie a few minutes after play, through the baskets of Stoffel for the Collegiates and Martin for the Dominoes. The visitors put on the pressure at this point, however, and baskets by Smith, Stoffel and Hetrick gave them an 8 to 2 lead before Chuck Chapman gained a point for the Victoria squad on a free shot. Keeping up the pressure, Tacoma garnered four more points and at this time were leading 12 to 3.

Baskets by Red Martin and Art Chapman, which boosted the Victoria score to seven points, resulted in Tacoma calling a time-out. The locals pressed heavily following the time out and as the teams reached the ten-minute mark the score stood 14 to 13.

The locals secured their first lead of the game when Doug Peden sank a beauty from the side with six minutes to go. They went into a deadlock almost immediately, however, when Bud Hetrick garnered a free shot, the score being 15 all.

The score from then to the end of the half saw the teams leading alternately by two points.

SECOND HALF

For eight minutes of the second half the Dominoes had it all over their opponents and surged ahead with fifteen points to two for the visitors. The locals had little trouble in scoring thereafter and piled up basket after basket. The local lads played around a little at this stage, working some smart plays, and displaying a number of their passing feats.

Tommy Macedo and Fred Harding refereed.

The teams and scores follow:

Dominoes—A. Chapman (14), Andrews (12), C. Chapman (5), Peden (10), Martin (18), Mottishaw, Kinnear, Goldsmith, McKeachie. Total, 59.

Varsity Track Team Picked For Indoor Meet Here Friday

Even Contest Is Expected Between Y and Students

Second-place Finishers May Decide Annual Competition at Armories

LOCALS READY FOR EVENT

Support afforded major stars will most probably be the deciding feature in Victoria's third annual indoor track duel between Varsity athletes and the local Y.M.C.A. at the Armories on Friday evening.

Coach Archie McKinnon, director of the meet, after scanning the U.B.C. entry list, picked five first places for the Capitals and an equal number for the visitors.

To his way of thinking the points secured by second and third place finishers will be the determining feature in deciding the team victory.

According to the dope Varsity should take the shuttle relay, the forty-five yards sprint, the twelve pound shot put, the high jump and the two-twenty sprint.

LOCAL HOPES

Y.M.C.A. stars are figured to win the eight-eighty, the forty-five yard hurdles, four-forty run, mile and the mile relay. There is also a chance Art Chapman may take the high jump, although Alex Lucas, Varsity entry, has cleared the bar at six feet two inches.

For the shuttle relay Varsity will use Lyle Wilson, star wing three-quarter of the U.B.C. English rugby team, Alex Lucas, young sprinter and jumper who made a big name for himself in high school competition. Jerry Ward, Victoria bike rider who has developed into a sprinter at the Point Grey Institution and Howie McPhee, international schoolboy sprinter. Victoria will be represented by Joe Addison, Owen Bentley, Paul Rowe and Arnie Philipsen.

OPPOSITION FOR DALE

Mansfield Beach, Varsity, is expected to give Victoria's Bill Dale a good run in the half mile. Ronald Allen is Varsity's second choice for the distance, while Chuck Stevens, C. Durbin and Bob Hughes will represent the Flying Y with Dale.

Howie McPhee should be a double winner in the sprints. He is figured to take the forty-five yard dash and the two-twenty for the students. Alex Lucas and Lyle Wilson will join him in the former. Addison, Bentley and Philipsen are local entries for the dash and Paul Rowe, Wilson Jobson and Henry Rowe are listed for the two-twenty.

Jim McCammon, U.B.C. winner of the shot last year, and Alex Lucas will face very fair opposition from Doug Peden, Art Chapman, Bill Thompson and Paul Rowe in the weight event. McCammon holds the Varsity record for the event.

McPhee will also make a bid for the forty-five yard hurdles against Addison and Art Chapman. The event should be one of the best on the programme.

SHOULD TAKE QUARTER

Addison should take the quarter in which Norm McRae, a newcomer, and Jerry Ward will carry Varsity's colors. Bill Thompson and Lorne P. McGregor will also run for the Y.

Against Lucas, Varsity high jump star, the local team will send three exceptionally good performers, Thompson, Jim Cousins and Chapman. On his record, Lucas should win but he will have to give his best to take the Victorians.

Victoria is counting on Chuck Cunningham to take the mile in which Clary Durban, another Y boy, is figured a threat. Walter Stewart, another new man at Varsity, and Paddy Colthurst, English rugby star, will run for Varsity. Jimmy Robinson will make his debut in senior company for the Y in the event.

Victoria's quartette chosen from Bill Dale, Paul Rowe, Alec Gaunt, Joe Addison, Owen Bently and A. Philipsen are figured strong enough to take the measure of Beach, Allen, Ward and Norm McRae, who will compete for Varsity.

In addition to the feature events, several junior and girls sprints will be staged, as well as acrobatics and dancing exhibitions.

Freddie Miller To Fight Payne

Seattle, Jan. 13.—Seattle sport fans get another chance to see Freddie Miller, the featherweight boxing champion.

Promoter Nate Druxman announced he has signed the battler to meet Cecil Payne, Louisville, Ky., in a ten-round non-title bout here January 21.

Miller will come to Seattle Friday and will weigh about 130. Payne, a slugger who twice defeated Henry Woods, Yakima, has agreed to make 135 pounds.

NORTH SHORE TAKES SECOND

Defeats Vancouver Rangers 2 to 1 to Move Up in Intercity Soccer

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—North Shore United coasted into second place in the Intercity Soccer League Saturday, when they defeated Vancouver Rangers, 2 to 1, before approximately 1,100 spectators at Con Jones Park.

In the first half the Rangers ran rampant over the North Shore side, although they missed many good scoring opportunities. North Shore capitalized on Rangers' inability to score by breaking away after the initial twenty minutes. Cummings crossed and Dempsey smashed the ball into the top of the net. North Shore led 1 to 0 at half-time.

Stobbart equalized for the Rangers shortly after the change of ends. Morley lobbed the ball into the goalmouth when Harrison and McGill both failed to clear, and Stobbart took advantage of the opportunity to sneak the leather past Rabbit.

A corner conceded by Cowan resulted in the winning United counter. Johnson, who had replaced Dempsey, took the flag kick and Cummings headed it home.

R. Wheeler, Rangers' centre-half was carried from the field near the finish of the game after a collision with Cummings. He suffered a strained shoulder.

TWO CHAMPS ROOT FOR JOE

Two men who gave Detroit championship sport teams during 1935 are rooting for Joe Louis, centre, to give the Motor City another title in 1936. They are Mickey Cochrane, left, whose Tigers won the world series, and Potsy Clark, right, who led the Detroit Lions to the professional football title in the National League. Both met Joe in Detroit and wished him a successful New Year.

NET TROUPE OPENS PLAY

First Performance of Pros Featured by Debut of Mrs. Arnold and Jane Sharp

New York, Jan. 13.—Featured by the debut of Ethel Burkhardt Arnold and Jane Sharp, the first women to turn professional in ten years, Bill O'Brien's salaried tennis troupers launched their 1936 indoor barnstorming campaign in Madison Square Garden Saturday night before 14,820 cash customers who paid $21,725.

The women made their curtsey in a single contest. Sounder in strategy and strokes and not affected by the stage-fright which smote her opponent, Mrs. Arnold won in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4. The four-foot ten-inch matron later scored with Lester Stoeffen in a mixed doubles contest against Miss Sharp and big Bill Tilden. The score was 6-3, 7-5.

Results of the other matches:

George Lott defeated Bruce Barnes 6-2 in a one-setter.

Tilden defeated Berkeley Bell 6-1, 6-4.

Ellsworth Vines defeated Stoeffen 6-2, 6-2.

WESTS WIN SOCCER

Playing in the Combination Cup semi-final for second division soccer teams on Saturday afternoon the Victoria West defeated Esquimalt 4 to 1.

Cleveland Gains In Minor Hockey

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 13.—Cleveland Falcons, led by Ken Doraty, once the king-pin of National League pinch-hitters, had a whole hand in the International Hockey League pie today and for the first time this season Detroit Olympics had something to worry about.

Olympics were idle over the weekend as Falcons clubbed out a 6 to 4 overtime decision over London Tecumsehs and crept to within two points of the western group leaders. Doraty collected three goals and an assist to feature cleveland's uphill fight. Lloyd Gross had two goals and an assist.

Syracuse Stars, eastern group leaders, lost 6 to 3 to Rochester Cardinals Saturday night, but made up for that lapse by trounicing Windsor Bull Dogs 5 to 2 yesterday evening.

Port Vale Puts Sunderland Out

London, Jan. 13.—Port Vale, second division soccer club, provided the biggest upset of the English Cup competition to date by defeating Sunderland, leader of the English League, 2 to 0, in a replayed third round game to-day. The match was played on Port Vale's ground. Last Saturday the teams played a 2 to 2 draw at Roker Park, Sunderland.

Arthur Hendrix Wins Over Grant

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 13.—Arthur Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla., new sensation of the clay courts, yesterday upset Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, Atlanta, the third ranking player of the United States, in the semi-finals of the fourth annual Miami-Biltmore tennis tournament. The score was 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-0.

Hendrix, recently victor over Wilmer Allison, national champion, at New Orleans, completely outplayed Grant.

KAZANJIAN AND ELLIOTT DRAW

Divide Decision in Fast Wrestling Match at Tillicum Gym

Displaying good sportsmanship by being content with a draw, rather than take advantage of his injured opponent, "King" Elliott, popular 210-pound wrestler from Australia and "Casey" Kazanjian, 215-pound California grappler finished even in the main event on Fred Richardson's weekly mat show Saturday evening at the Tillicum gym.

The bout had plenty of action for the fine gathering of fans and finished in the fourth session. Elliatt freeing himself from a hold dropped toward the mat and fell on Kazanjian's right knee tearing a cartilege. A fall was awarded Elliott by referee Richardson. However, when the gong sounded for the fifth round the Californian was unable to continue and the referee attempted to award the match to Elliott, who refused to take the fall without pinning his opponent. The bout was then called a draw.

Ganda Singh, powerful East Indian, had little trouble with "Bad Man" Johnson and secured falls in the third and fourth rounds. Singh took the initial fall in the third round with an airplane spin and a body slam, and followed up to administer a body press after swinging Johnson around in a full Nelson in the fourth.

Louie Newman, local wrestler, lost to Gurdas Singh, Vancouver, in a lone-fall decision, in the special event. Singh gained his fall in the fourth round with a body press.

Reg Hopkins, colorful local grappler defeated Barney Lane, another Victoria wrestler, in the opener. Lane garnered the first fall with a Boston crab in the first round. Hopkins evened up in the next session with a body press, and gained the deciding fall in the third round with a body press.

"Pat" Griffin refereed the preliminary bouts.

V.A.C. Hoopsters Lose to Kelowna

Kelowna, Jan. 13.—Basketball enthusiasts refused to be beaten by the storm which crippled miles of power lines and left them without light for the gymnasium in which the Kelowna cage team was to meet the Vancouver V.A.C. quintette Saturday night.

An auxiliary power unit was obtained from a nearby farm and was hooked up with a tractor. The emergency power station supplied ample light and the Kelowna team defeated the visitors 24 to 23 to the delight of a large number of spectators.

Paris, Jan. 13.—The United States Olympic hockey team locked in a 4 to 4 tie with the French Volants Saturday night in its first game after arriving in Europe. The Americans showed the effects of their sea voyage, which ended Friday, in their poor teamwork, but balanced it with good individual play.

Missing $6,000 Hockey Problem

Officials of Maritime Association Declare Canadian Body Received Over $11,000 From Allan Cup Games and Not $5,000; Investigation Asked

Amherst, N.S., Jan. 13.—More than $11,000 of last year's Allan Cup playoff receipts went to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, James E. Wry, president of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association, declared over the week-end.

The Maritime hockey chief was replying to Fred Marples, secretary of the C.A.H.A., who was quoted last week as saying the senior body had received only $5,000 of the gate money taken in at the games played in Halifax last winter.

Marples, professing to be little disturbed at threats of Halifax sportsmen to issue an injunction for return of the money after dropping of four Halifax Wolverines from the Canadian Olympic team, had said he guessed the $6,000 discrepancy between the two figures must have "gone astray."

The answer to just where it went, Wry said in his statement, will be sought by M.A.H.A. officials from the C.A.H.A. officers accompanying the Olympics to Halifax this week.

He declared he was asking for a joint meeting of executives of the two bodies in Halifax to "thresh the matter to a conclusion."

WRY'S VERSION

His version of what the C.A.H.A. got out of the championship playoffs is this: "On April 22, 1935, a cheque for $8,000 was turned over to W. A. Hewitt of the C.A.H.A., while another cheque for $2,879 was turned over May 1, 1935, making a total of $10,879 the C.A.H.A received from Jack Conn, Wolverine's president, from the Allan Cup semi-finals and finals. On top of that, smaller amounts were turned over from time to time during the series, mostly to the C.A.H.A. for support of the Port Arthur Bear Cats, who were awaiting the start of the final series. Altogether, the amount secured by the C.A.H.A. totaled well over $11,000."

Besides getting this issue cleared up at the proposed Halifax meeting, Wry indicated he would seek a full explanation of the dropping of the four Wolves from the Olympics for alleged money demands.

INJURIES FATAL

Simcoe, Ont., Jan. 13.—Harold "Jumbo" Henwood, twenty-two years old and married, a member of St. Jude's intermediate B hockey team of Brantford, succumbed in a hospital here Saturday night to injuries received in Friday night's O.H.A. game at Port Dover.

Hines Winner of California Golf

Los Angeles, Jan. 13.—Jimmy Hines, blond giant from Garden City, L.I., won the Los Angeles $5,000 open golf championship yesterday with a seventy-two-hole total of 280.

It was even par. With a gallery of 5,000 watching him, Hines came in four strokes ahead of Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., professional, and Jimmy Thomson, Ridgewood, N.J., siege gun.

OLYMPIANS LOSE AGAIN

Weakened Canadian Hockey Squad Drops 2 to 0 Decision to Kingston

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 13.—Weary and baffled by superlative Kingston goaltending, Canada's Olympic hockey team suffered a 2 to 0 defeat at the hands of a combination of Queen's University and Kingston players here Saturday night. A crowd of 2,000 watched the contest.

The Olympians clearly showed the effects of playing games on three consecutive nights and apart from Ray Milton, Alex Sinclair and Bill Thomson failed to show any exceptional form. They were blanked, however, only by the masterful netminding of Bill Gowsell and Red Scrutton.

At times, when the home team was shorthanded through penalties, the Olympics kept the puck inside the Kingston goal zone for minutes on end.

They earned three or four goals on their sorties, but never were able to get the puck past Gowsell or Scrutton.

"Winky" Wilson, former Napanee wingman, scored both goals for the winners.

It was the fourth game played by the Olympic team within five days. They were beaten 4 to 3 by Toronto Dukes on Tuesday night, beaten 6 to 3 by Hamilton Tigers Thursday night, and won from Brockville Magedomas 3 to 2 Friday night.

Saturday night the team was without Dave Neville, Arnold Deacon, Bud Kitchen, Hugh Farquharson and Dinty Moore.

NO TESTS IN THREE GRADES

B.C. Dispenses With Final Exams in Grades Nine, Ten and Eleven

Final examinations, the bugbear of school children, will be eliminated in grades nine, ten and eleven of British Columbia public schools, the Department of Education has announced.

Promotions at the end of the school term in these three grades will be made by the principals.

The grades affected are in high and superior schools.

Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, said the cost of preparing papers and of providing examiners would be saved by dispensing with the tests. This money, he added, would be "spent to better advantage." He did not specify how much the saving on examinations would be.

He explained that for some years there have been very few pupils taking the tests in the grades concerned. Promotion has been by recommendation. The cost of preparing papers is just as great for a few pupils as for many, however.

The elimination of these tests leaves the high school entrance and junior and senior matriculation examinations as the main points in a pupil's school life when he must submit to written departmental tests of ability.

The examination will be dispensed with starting next June.

Still After Harbor Board

City to Continue Efforts to Secure Visit of Group to Victoria

Efforts will be continued by the city to secure a visit of the federal central harbor board to Victoria in spite of an unusual telegram from Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Marine, which stated he did not believe the matters which the city wished to discuss with the harbor board were under its jurisdiction.

Alderman Walter Luney, chairman of the executive of the public works committee, said to-day he would attempt to ascertain what body was responsible for the harbor. If he could find none, he said, he would urge the city to make application for jurisdiction.

Hon. C. D. Howe's telegram, a reply to a wire sent to him by the city clerk asking him to use his influence in having the harbor board meet here, read as follows:

"Your wire 7th (received). As harbor of Victoria not under jurisdiction of harbor board, I believe I am not justified in asking harbor board to visit your city."

WANT INFORMATION

"We are waiting now to see what J. P. Forde, district engineer for British Columbia of the Department of Public Works, has to say on the matter," Alderman Luney said to-day.

The alderman further said he would interview Col. A. R. Wilby, local agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department here, to see if he could secure any information on the question of jurisdiction over the harbor.

If there appeared to be no responsible body, Alderman Luney said, he believed Victoria should make application for control of the harbor. If the city held those rights, it would solve a lot of Victoria's problems, inasmuch as the council could make its own decisions on the squatters now using the foreshore in certain localities. The city could also negotiate with the Imperial Oil Company over foreshore rights to build a boat landing and many other questions, he said.

Reserve Placed On Big Island Forest

Government Establishes Provincial Forest on Area Covering 887,000 Acres; Roughly 50,000,000,000 Feet of Timber in B.C. Reserves Now

Northern Vancouver Island, from Sayward district to the Nimpkish River on the east coast and the Nootka area on the west coast, was to-day reserved by the provincial government as the Nimpkish forest reserve.

The new reserve covers 1,386 square miles, or 887,000 acres. About one half of it is mountain land and scrub. Four-fifths of the remainder is good timber and there are 30,000 acres.

It is specified that any alienated timber in the area, when it falls back to the crown shall fall in the reserve.

Setting aside of this big Vancouver Island block brings the total forest area now under reserve to 23,800 square miles, or 15,000,000 acres. This includes fourteen reserves on the coast and twenty-four in the interior.

The reserves contain roughly 50,000,000,000 feet of timber. Part of this is now alienated but the land will fall back into the reserves as it is cut. It has a yearly crop of about 600,000,000 feet.

Under the present forest policy, it was explained, the plan is to add reserves at the rate of about 1,000,000 acres a year. By 1950 it is hoped to have 25,000,000 acres under reserve and by the end of the century 75,000,000 acres.

This, it is calculated, would produce an annual crop of over 8,000,000,000 feet of timber, roughly twice as much as is now being cut commercially.

TRAGEDY IF ITALIANS WIN

Alan McIntosh Here From Belgian Congo Tells Gyros of Experiences

A vivid picture of life in a remote portion of Africa and many interesting observations on African affairs generally were given to members of the Gyro Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day by Alan McIntosh, for seven years a missionary in the Belgian Congo. He is now on his way back there after furlough.

He had many adventures to recount, from the time of his first trip into the interior, when many of the porters laid down their loads on the trail and deserted, to the time when he had seen little churches spring up in the bush, and the work of Christianity get under way.

The part of the Congo in which Mr. McIntosh was stationed, with his wife and three children, was one of the least developed. Very little had as yet been done towards the establishment of government services, schools and medical stations.

Nevertheless, the people showed a great will to learn. All the young men were anxious to read, realizing that new worlds would open before them. This will to learn made the task of spreading the gospel an easy one.

The country where he was was not the level, dry, dusty Africa of popular conception, but a green, mountainous land, with a climate suitable for white men, although two degrees south of the equator.

LAND OF PYGMIES

The station at which Mr. McIntosh lived was near the land of the Pygmies, and he had interesting facts to tell of these strange little people, whose height ranged from three foot six inches to four foot six inches. They were the greatest hunters in the world, he said, attacking elephants with nothing but small spears. Yet they had a bad inferiority complex. For generations the other races had been telling them that they were not real men, but descendants of the baboons, and the words had made a deep impression.

Mr. McIntosh drew a contrast between the British and the Belgian administrations. The British, he said, succeeded in allowing the greatest freedom, and yet in establishing an excellent administration.

In the crown colony of Uganda, the nearest British territory, many of the natives owned cycles, motorcycles and even cars. The government had protected the cotton industry for them, and had built fine towns with good buildings, streets and parks. British-administered territory was always the best field for missionary work, he added.

ETHIOPIAN INVASION

"It would be a tragedy if the Italians should manage to subjugate Ethiopia," Mr. McIntosh told the club. The Ethiopians, he said, must be allowed to work out their destiny for themselves

Italian need for expansion, he added later in answer to questions from club members, was no legitimate excuse for the Italian invasion. Nor had the Italians such concrete proofs of their colonial administrative ability in their other colonies as the British.

He added that all white men were just members of one race to the natives. Italian, French or English were all the same to them.

"It is inevitable that the Italian invasion of Ethiopia will stir anti-white feeling in other colonies," he said.

However, talk of a general black uprising against white rule was overrated. Attempts in the past had always ended in failure. The whites had the arms on their side.

Mr. McIntosh referred to the great field for missionary work in Africa. He had gone there himself, he said, because he thought that it was in that sphere that he could be of the greatest use.

Mr. McIntosh was introduced by Alderman Archie Wills, who had served with him overseas. He told the club briefly of the speaker's life as an athlete, a soldier and a missionary.

Waldo Skillings, president of the club, thanked the speaker.

Admits Making Bogus Cheques

F. A. Lesley Turner Pleads Guilty to Ten Charges of Fraud in City

F. A. Lesley Turner, alias Walter C. Campbell, pleaded guilty in the City Police Court this morning to ten charges of obtaining money or goods under false pretences by the use of bogus cheques. He was remanded until to-morrow morning for sentence. He was arrested Saturday in Nanaimo by Detective William Stark.

Between December 20 and January 2 Turner victimized nine local merchants with false cheques, and in some instances, when merchants questioned him in regard to accepting a cheque, he gave names of well-known local people as references.

In the ten charges Turner secured $66.10 in cash and goods valued at $21.25, although in some cases he did not call for goods which he purchased.

R. R. Roberts, Fort Street antique dealer, one of the victims, stated the accused came into his store, ordered a smoking outfit and presented a $10 cheque for payment. Mr. Roberts gave the accused $6.35 in cash.

Money was obtained similarly from Frank J. H. Baines, of Lilley's Candy Store, and W. C. Fyfe, clothier. Mr. Fyfe said the accused had shown him a U.C.T. identification card.

HAD BEEN DRINKING

The prosecution produced a record of one previous conviction against the accused on a charge of receiving stolen property in Calgary.

Asked by the court if he had anything to say, the accused replied, "I was drinking considerable at that time and I don't even recollect some of these charges, but they must be right."

The following merchants preferred charges against the accused: R.R. Roberts, who lost $6.35 in cash; W. C. Fyfe, who lost $8.50 in cash and $3.50 in goods; Horace Goad, $10; John Vincent Barnes, $10; Ernest Hill, who received a bogus cheque for $3.65 for the hire of a car; Christina Richards, Douglas Hotel, $2.35 in goods; F. J. H. Baines, $5 in cash and $5 in goods; F. J. H. Baines, $6 in cash and $2 in goods; Clarence V. McConnell, $13 in cash and $2 in goods, and G. H. Birnie, $7.25 in cash and $2.75 in goods.

Once Directed Covent Garden

Major Loudon Greenlees Here to Start Transcontinental Concert Tour

Major Loudon Greenlees, Scottish baritone, former director of Covent Garden Opera and one of the most colorful figures in the concert world to-day, arrived in Victoria by the afternoon boat from Vancouver to-day.

He will rest at the Empress Hotel until the end of the week, when he will proceed to Seattle for an engagement with the Seattle Symphony Orchestra on Monday, January 20.

Major Greenlees's tour writes another chapter to a life teeming with musical activity.

His career includes war services with the Scottish Horse and the Scots Guards with whom he was badly wounded, the playing of a large part in the administration of Cologne and surrounding territory with the British army of occupation, many years of searching out talent for Covent Garden Opera in London and a private life busied with hunting, riding, sports and the serious study of music. His handicap in each of the nine golf clubs throughout England and Scotland of which he is a member, is seven, and was formerly scratch.

His concert tour will include appearances in New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Cornell University, Boston.

R. B. Buckerfield, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, London, England, has been appointed one of the trustees for investment of B.C. sinking, funds under the Inscribed Stock Act. He replaces Crawford Gordon, former manager of the bank.

Retirement on superannuation of John Douglas Stewart, instructor of the mines rescue station at Nanaimo, was announced at the Legislative Buildings this morning. He has served in this capacity for many years.

Obituary

EMMA JANE RICHARDSON

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Jane Richardson, who passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. R. J. Chisholm of 1230 Basil Avenue last Saturday, occurring will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chapel of the Sands Mortuary Limited. Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson will officiate, and the remains will be laid to rest in the family plot, Royal Oak Burial Park.

MICHAEL COOPER

The funeral of Chief Michael Cooper, who passed away last Friday at St. Joseph's Hospital, will take place to-morrow morning, the cortege leaving the family residence, Admirals Road, at 9.40 o'clock. At 10 o'clock mass will be celebrated at the church of Our Lady Queen of Peace, Old Esquimalt Road, by Rev. Father A. B. Wood, and the remains will be laid to rest in the family plot, Ross Bay Cemetery. Flowers delivered to the Sands Mortuary Limited will be cared for.

NELLIE LOUISE HOPKINS

The remains of Mrs. Nellie Louise Hopkins, who passed away last Thursday at St. Joseph's Hospital, were laid to rest yesterday in the family plot at Nanaimo. On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock Rev. J. B. Rowell officiated at the services conducted in this city, where many friends were present. Mrs. S. M. Morton sang the solo "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

JEANIE MOFFAT NAYSMITH

The funeral of Mrs. Jeanie Moffat Naysmith, who passed away Wednesday, was held Saturday afternoon. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., conducted the service, during which the hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," were sung. A large number of friends attended the service, among whom were J. B. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture; Dr. W. R. Gunn, livestock commissioner; J. R. Terry, poultry commissioner; A. H. Shotbolt, exhibition specialist; J. Thornber, Department of Agriculture, and D. M. McTavish, president of the horticultural association. Many beautiful floral tributes were received. Interment was made in Colwood Burial Park, with the following as pallbearers: E. M. Whyte, A. Davis, R. Battison, J. Wilson, D. Halliday and A. Johnston.

CONVICTS ASK APPEAL LEAVE

Acting Chief Justice Hears Pleas Preparatory to High Court Opening To-morrow

Acting Chief Justice Martin of the Court of Appeal sat in chambers all to-day, preparatory to the opening of the 1936 sittings of the highest court in the province here to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

Arthur Sutherland, nineteen, and Joe Isaac Augusta, twenty-six, Bulkeley Valley Indians, were granted leave to appeal against the sentences of sixteen and seventeen years respectively imposed on them by Judge H. E. A. Robertson at Smithers, October 29, for throwing a switch on the Canadian National and thus jeopardizing the lives of many persons.

H. H. Griffin of Smithers, defence counsel, explained to the Acting Chief Justice that the boys are simple-minded and of a primitive type, and their play with the switch was more in the nature of mischief than a deliberate attempt to wreck a train and bring about the death of a large number of persons.

Prosecutor W. B. Colvin pointed out the offence carried a maximum sentence of life imprisonment. He said many lives might have been lost had a fast transcontinental passenger train come along instead of a slow freight train, the engine of which passed on to the siding. A fast train, he said, would have been unable to stop in time to prevent a drop of 150 feet into the Bulkeley River.

Charles Gould, sentenced by Magistrate George Jay on December 4 for the theft of a handbag belonging to Pauline Rooks, appeared in person against sentence but the Acting Chief Justice denied his application. Gould was then taken before Judge Lampman to elect trial on another charge, that of being found illegally at night in a hotel for women only.

Harry Ronald A. Smith, Victoria boy, sentenced by County Court Judge Lennox in Vancouver to two and one-half years for carrying a revolver in a vehicle, applied for leave to appeal from sentence and conviction. His sentence of forty-five days for being in possession of explosives is being opposed as too lenient by Walter S. Owen, appearing for the Attorney-General. The Acting Chief Justice is continuing consideration of the Smith case this afternoon.

MAY REDUCE BEGBIE HILL

Reduction of the steep grade on Begbie Street, east of Belmont Avenue, is engaging the attention of the city engineer's department as plans are proceeding for the improvement of that roadway, it was announced by G. M. Irwin, city engineer, to-day.

The hill is excessively steep and prevents the use of Begbie Street as an artery to the eastern part of the city.

Among other schemes under way is the construction of a cement water drain under Burnside Road as a part of the Cecelia Ravine drainage project. Work is not expected on that section of the project this month.

The provincial government to-day appointed Hedley V. Dartt, of Golden, as a Court of Revision for Golden assessment district, replacing W. J. McRae.

A Message to All Lovers of Good Music
RCA
It is perhaps no exaggeration to say that in every home where there is an appreciation of good music, there you will find a radio. Because radio does offer a number of hours during the week when musical entertainment of the highest order is available. But why not go a step farther and command the type of musical entertainment you want "when you want it?" R.C.A. Victor offers you such an instrument . . . a radio that will give you all the standard programmes, reach out and bring you short-wave broadcasts, and at the same time play records of the musical masterpieces of all time. The prices of these new instruments are from $207.50 to $650. We invite you to see them and hear them at this store.

NEW RECORDS IN CAR SALES

December Greatest Month in History of Studebaker, Says Vice-president

Factory sales of Studebaker automobiles in Canada for December last were the largest for any similar month in the history of the corporation, stated M. S. Brooks, vice-president and general manager of the Studebaker Corporation of Canada Ltd., following his arrival in Victoria to-day from Walkerville, Ont.

The Studebaker executive is at the Empress Hotel to-day with E. D. Pritchard, western sales representative, Calgary.

"Never before," said Mr. Brooks, "have factory sales of Studebaker passenger cars and trucks in any December equalled the figure made in the month just past. Satisfactory as this record is, we were unable to build cars in reasonable quantities until past the middle of the month, else we most certainly would have set a much more exceptional record of car shipments."

M. S. BROOKS
vice-president and general manager of Studebaker Corporation of Canada Ltd.

DEMAND CONTINUES

"The demand continues to exceed production, and as of to-day, we have on hand orders for immediate shipment totaling in excess of last January's factory sales figure," continued Mr. Brooks. "This condition apparently justifies the industry's belief that fall introduction of new models would serve to spread employment well across the winter months, as it appears now that we should be able to hold our production at a consistently high level for some time to come."

Mr. Brooks figures January will be an equally high month in factory sales.

Talking specifically of the west and quoting figures from records, he said: "Studebaker sales in the province of British Columbia were 13.5 greater in 1935 than in 1934. We are pleased with our business in B.C. because public acceptance of Studebaker cars on the Coast generally is greater than in any other province in Canada."

WOMEN DESIGNERS

Inspecting late Studebaker models this morning, Mr. Brooks pointed to the new interior harmony designed by a woman. Helen Dryden, stylist leader and well-known editor of Vogue, he said, was responsible for the new interior design of Studebaker cars.

Eighty-five per cent of passenger automobile purchase to-day, he pointed out, is controlled by women. In other words it is woman's influence which is the dominating factor in turning the sale of a car.

With women the two great factors in a car are attractiveness and comfort. Such being the case, commented Mr. Brooks, it is only natural that the manufacturers of to-day cater to feminine tastes in the production of the newest car models.

While in Vancouver on Saturday Mr. Brooks presided over a dealer's luncheon and sales conference representative of British Columbia and Alberta.

To-day he called upon R. J. Jameson of Jameson Motors Ltd., Studebaker sales representative in the Victoria territory.

UNION LIBRARY AREA FAVORED

Vancouver Island Districts Voting for Scheme by Big Margin

With few exceptions Vancouver Island districts are solidly behind the plan to establish a union library district covering an area north from Shawnigan Lake to Courtenay, according to returns of votes filed with the provincial secretary's department.

Returns are only partial as yet but show that in twelve of the forty-seven districts, eleven voted overwhelmingly in favor and only one was against.

Following are the votes so far recorded:

Campbell River for 23; Cedar North for 22, against 3; Cowichan for 28, against 7; Diamond Crossing for 15, against 5; Errington for 44, against 3; Fanny Bay for 24; French Creek for 33, against 6; Harewood for 4, against 36; Minto for 8; Oyster for 40; Qualicum Beach for 77, against 3; Royson for 18.

Votes on similar schemes are being taken as well in West Kootenay and the Okanagan.

On votes so far Kettle Valley voted eighty- three against the scheme and in Okanagan the following votes were cast: Ellison, for 19, against 1; Okanagan Mission, for 14, against none; Westwold, for 18, against none.

The village of Abbotsford has been included in the Fraser Valley Union Library district which is the only one now operating.

DIED

JONES—Passed away on Friday, January 10, at his residence, 947 Nicholson Street, Esquimalt, William Henry Jones, aged sixty-nine years; a native of Liverpool, England, and a resident of Victoria for over forty-five years. He is survived by his widow, at the family residence, and two sons in Detroit, Mich.; two stepsons residing in Edmonton and Los Angeles, Cal., and seven grandchildren.
The remains are resting at the Thomson Funeral Home pending funeral arrangements, which will be announced later.

FINLAY—There passed away on January 10 at her home, Shawnigan Lake, Mrs. Ellen Finlay, widow of the late James Finlay, who predeceased her December 31, 1930. The late Mrs. Finlay was aged seventy-two years, a native of Westville, Pictou County, N.S.; a resident of British Columbia for more than forty-five years. She leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. Millard of Vancouver, and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Annie Joyce, of Hollywood, Calif.
The funeral has been arranged to take place from the Thomson Funeral Home on Tuesday, January 14, at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

COOPER—Friday night, January 10, at St. Joseph's Hospital, there passed away Chief Michael Cooper of Admirals Road, Esquimalt; aged seventy-one years; born in San Juan Island and a resident of this city all his life. There survive his widow, at home; two sons, Martin of West Saanich and George Cooper at the family residence, and one daughter, Mrs. A. E. Aikman, in Esquimalt.
The remains are resting at the Sands Mortuary Ltd., and on Monday afternoon the casket will be removed to his home, Admirals Road. Tuesday, January 14, the cortege will leave the residence at 9.40 o'clock, and at 10 o'clock mass will be celebrated by Rev. Father A. B. Wood in the Church of Our Lady Queen of Peace, Old Esquimalt Road, and the remains will be laid to rest in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

RICHARDSON—On January 11 at her home, 1230 Basil Avenue, there passed away Mrs. Emma Jane Richardson, widow of the late William Richardson, who predeceased her in February, 1933, aged sixty-five years; born in England and a resident of this city for the last sixteen years. There survive one son, M. P. Richardson of Nelson, B.C., and five daughters, Mrs. R. J. Chisholm and Mrs. Arthur S. Miller of this city, Mrs. R. R. Williams of Portland, Mrs. T. E. Levasseur of Nelson, B.C., and Mrs. M. Balderston of Vancouver; also four brothers, two in this city and two in the provinces.
The funeral will take place on Tuesday, January 14, at 2 o'clock, in the chapel of the Sands Mortuary Ltd., and the remains will be laid to rest in the family plot in Royal Oak Burial Park.

THOMPSON—At the Royal Jubilee Hospital on January 9, Frederick Clifford Thompson, aged fifty-seven years, of Rowland Avenue, Saanich. The late Mr. Thompson was born in Yorkshire, England, and had been a resident of this province for the last twenty-four years, and is mourned by his widow, four daughters, Misses Alice, Isabel and Doris, and Mrs. G. Adams, in Pennsylvania, United States, and two sons, Herbert and Roy, all of Saanich; also three sisters and two brothers in England, and a brother and sister in the United States. He was an employee of the Canadian Pacific Railway for twenty years.
The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon from McCall Bros.' Funeral Home, at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. O. L. Jull will conduct the service, after which interment will be in the family plot at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Leo Diegel to Rest For Year

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 13.—Withdrawing from the Los Angeles open golf tournament, Leo Diegel, Philadelphia veteran professional who has held the Canadian crown five times, said yesterday he would not play any more competitive golf for a year because of an injury to his right shoulder.

He hurt it a year ago in a friendly scuffle with Harry Cooper, Chicago professional.

Diegel shot an 83 in the tournament here Friday. He did not play Saturday. He will continue his duties as a club professional at Philadelphia.

BIG SEVEN OF MAJOR HOCKEY

Though they both were on losing teams, Charlie Conacher, Toronto Leafs, and Sweeney Schriner, New York Americans, pitted a pair of points each over the week-end and moved into a tie for first place in the National Hockey League's big seven. They are one point ahead of Paul Thompson, Chicago, who is followed by five who trail him by another point.

Two points each also brought Larry Aurie, Detroit, and Cooney Weiland, Boston, into the charmed circle, while Buzz Boll, Toronto, who failed to get a goal or an assist, dropped out.

Standings follow:

	G.	A.	Pts
Conacher, Toronto	11	8	19
Schriner, Americans	10	9	19
Thompson, Chicago	10	8	18
Dillon, Rangers	9	8	17
Lewis, Detroit	8	9	17
Thoms, Toronto	7	10	17
Weiland, Boston	7	10	17

THE FIGHT OF CAPITAL

slips—certificates of earnings, which, of course, need have no intrinsic worth, but depend for their ultimate face-value upon the ability of the issuing power to redeem them. Money is no more capital than a measuring-rod is a building. Money is the best device known for measuring values and facilitating the exchange of wealth, or capital. (Wealth is the larger and inclusive term).

All wealth is produced by the application of labor to natural resources, with the help, of course, of capital. Capital is just stored-up labor, such as lumber, brick, glass, cement, etc., and other labor products.

The cities of Montreal, Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, that is, the buildings and other improvements which physically constitute these cities, is wealth.

Capital is that part of wealth which is, at the moment, devoted to the production of more wealth. For instance: A residence occupied by the owner is wealth; the same residence let for rent is capital. A yacht kept for the pleasure of the owner is wealth; if used to carry passengers it at once becomes capital. A railroad president's private car is wealth; turn it into a passenger coach and it is at once capital. Business blocks and rented houses are capital because they are in the process of producing more capital, or, if you will, wealth.

The cities mentioned consist for the most part of capital; are we to infer that if taxed too heavily the blocks and residences therein would rear up on their hind legs and jump, or fly, into another country?

Neither does money go out of the country, although you hear the expression "draining the money out of the country" quite often. No such thing takes place. Money just constitutes an order on all forms of wealth within the jurisdiction of the issuing power. If the government which issues the money honors it on presentation, such money will find ready acceptance by every vendor of food, clothing, building materials, etc.

Whatever "flight of capital" or money, there may be can only be negligible and exceptional. The term is just another bogey trotted out by the privileged or their puppets to divert attention from one process or another of fleecing the public.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

HOPPE CAPTURES BILLIARD CROWN

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Willie Hoppe, shooting at the peak of the form that earned him the title of "boy wonder" of billiards two decades ago, climaxed an eight-year quest Saturday night by conquering Welker Cochran, San Francisco, 360 to 246, to gain his first world three-cushion billiards championship.

Hoppe won Saturday night's block 60 to 38 in fifty-one innings, turning in a huge run of six. Cochran, who won the championship in a recent tournament here, had a high run of five, two short of his best string of the challenge match.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Something new in "Zooming" camera technique was invented by George Seitz, directing Virginia Bruce, Ricardo Cortez and Constance Collier in "Shadow of Doubt," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer detective mystery now being shown at the Playhouse Theatre.

By using the camera to follow a gun, passed from hand to hand, Seitz obtained a startling effect that, in a few feet, tells a story that otherwise would have required ten lines of dialogue and several "camera setups."

Jimmie Allen, nineteen-year-old radio serial star, arrived in Hollywood recently. Jimmie reported for work in the film, "The Sky Parade," based on his radio adventures.

COMIC OPERA COMING HERE

French Screen Version of "Le Barbier de Seville" at Empire Wednesday

For lovers of comic opera, and for those who are studying the French language, next Wednesday will be a gala day. A French screen version of "The Barber of Seville," presented by leading stars of the Paris Comedie Francaise, is being brought to the Empire Theatre under the auspices of L'Alliance Francaise.

The film will be shown continuously from 2 o'clock in the afternoon to about 10 o'clock at night. The film lasts approximately ninety minutes.

"Le Barbier de Seville," a play by Beaumarchais, is a story of the eighteenth century. It is full of amusing situations, gay comedy, repartee, sparkling wit and clever dialogue. The principal characters are Dr. Bartholo, an old man in love with and extremely jealous of his pretty ward, Rosine, whom he keeps sequestered and closely watched, the only man allowed in the house being Don Basile, an old music master.

The comedy is supplied by Figaro, the barber and man of all trades, who is clever, witty, full of ideas and tricks, and who helps the love intrigue all through the play.

The hero is Almavira, who is forbidden the house by Dr. Bartholo, but who manages by one trick or another to see Rosine, and to persuade her to elope. Unfortunately their plan is discovered, and her guardian sends for the notary to come and perform a marriage between the ward and himself. While Dr. Bartholo is being shaved by Figaro, Figaro manages to steal his keys, so that the lovers may escape, which they do, abandoning Rosine's dowry, which consoles the old man.

"So Red the Rose" Opens To-morrow

Margaret Sullavan is the star and Randolph Scott is her leading man in the Paramount dramatization of the Stark Young novel, "So Red the Rose," coming to-morrow to the Dominion Theatre.

Adapted to the screen by two distinguished playwrights, Lawrence Stallings and Edwin Justus Mayer, "So Red the Rose" tells the story of the old South when the war between the States divided loyalties and inflamed souls.

In the novel, which the screen play follows with integrity, Mr. Young recaptured not only the emotional stress and excitement of wartime, but also the romantic spirit and courage of the South.

On the same programme is Paramount's tuneful "Coronado," starring Betty Burgess and Johnny Downs.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Will Rogers's last picture, "In Old Kentucky," which is at the Capitol Theatre, is a fitting memorial to the great humorist. Rogers is cast as Steve Tapley, famous trainer of racehorses. Bill Robinson, popular negro tap dancer, is a featured player. Dorothy Wilson and Russell Hardie have the romantic leads, and Charles Richman, Allan Dinehart, Charles Sellon, Louise Henry and Esther Dale are prominent members of the fine supporting cast.

FINE CAST TO PRESENT PLAY

The exciting story of a rich family of young people, which suddenly finds itself penniless, forms the background for the play, "Three-Cornered Moon," the next production of the Victoria Little Theatre Association.

The play is rich in comedy situations, not the least of which comes in the first act, when the suicide pact of two of the leading characters is interrupted, so that one of them may go out and look for a job.

Austin Goward, whose work as the young playwright in the play, "The Play's the Thing," is well remembered by Victoria audiences, is cast as Donald, a novelist, who refuses to let the mundane business of earning a living interfere with the more serious problem of being a great writer.

Margaret Swanson is appearing in a role that gives the play its nicety of balance. She plays the elder sister of the family, who sets out after the catastrophe to steer her more irresponsible brothers through the difficult channels of their newly found poverty.

The cast also includes Miss Sheila Boyd, Frank Taylor, Christine McNab, Bill Findlay, Fraser Lister, Peggy Josephs and Harry Eke.

PAT O'BRIEN AT COLUMBIA

"Oil for the Lamps of China" Opened To-day

Pat O'Brien, Warner Bros. star, worked in two pictures of a very different character at the same time. O'Brien had to skip from the snow fields of Manchuria to the sun-baked desert land of Mexico, all in the same day.

In "Oil for the Lamps of China," the Cosmopolitan production which First National Pictures will release at the Columbia Theatre to-day, O'Brien within the space of two hours appeared in scenes with Manchurian, Shanghai and New York locales. Each scene meant a different costume.

The same night he appeared in scenes with an Agua Caliente locale. The picture is a musical, "In Caliente."

ZaSu Pitts will fill the chief feminine comedy role in the film, "Thirteen Hours by Air," which has Fred MacMurray and Gertrude Michael as romantic leads. Miss Pitts plays the fluttery governess of David Holt in this air drama for which Director Mitchell Leisen took a crew across country filming important airports en route for background scenes.

Quartette to Tour Abroad

On Thursday, January 23, at the Empress Hotel, the recital of the Hart House Quartette will be something in the nature of a farewell, as the members of the quartette will leave at the end of this season for a two-year tour of Europe and South America.

Their many admirers in Victoria and all string enthusiasts will no doubt turn out to bid these musicians good luck on their voyages.

Upswing In Rails Brightens Outlook On New York Board

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 13.—A late rally in the rails helped to brighten to-day's stock market picture. Packing, oil and specialty issues were also in demand.

Supreme Court ruling apparently did not stir the list unduly. Despite considerable profit taking in spots, there were many gains of fractions to a point or more.

The close was steady. Transfers approximated 2,650,000 shares.

The utilities led a forward push in the morning, but they shaded or cancelled their advances when the expected decision was not forthcoming.

Grains backed up while cotton steadied following dismissal by the high tribunal of the first bankhead act case. Rail bonds exhibited strength. The dollar rallied against the principal foreign exchanges.

The flurry in rail shares put the ticker tape a trifle behind in the final hour. Until then trading was quiet. Gainers included Missouri Pacific preferred, Santa Fe, Nickel Plate preferred, N.Y. Central, Union Pacific, Wilson & Co., Armour, Swift, American Sugar Refining, Houston Oil, Ohio Oil, Standard of New Jersey, National Cash Register, Burroughs and International Telephone. Declines up to a point were registered in Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, American Can and Anaconda.

A loss of 8 points was suffered by Air Reduction.

MEDIUM-PRICE GOLDS HIGHER

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 13.—The Toronto mining market lacked features to-day except for definite strength in a few of the medium-price gold issues.

Some of the base metal and silver stocks displayed mild weakness, which was more than offset by general strength in the golds.

Castle and Ventures held their ground and Eldorado took a loss of a few cents. Nipissing weakened 5 cents. The big copper stocks ruled steady. Heavy buying sent Pamour to 4.25, up 50 cents, and Siscoe up about 17 cents to 3.32.

LONDON MARKET

London, Jan. 13.—Trading was quiet but prices were firm in most cases on the stock exchange to-day. Oils, rubbers, industrials and West African gold shares received most attention. Gilt-edged securities were maintained on investment buying, although transatlantic issues were neglected. The closing was steady.

Winnipeg Futures Recede Slightly In Light Trading

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Jan. 13. — Wheat prices remained on an even keel on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day and traded, for most of the session, at levels fractionally under the previous close.

Values finished unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, May at 87¾, July 88⅛ and October 87⅛ cents.

Volume of transactions was light, with selling slightly outweighing the buying. Export sales totaled 400,000 bushels.

Liverpool closed ⅜ to ⅝d lower, while Chicago was a shade lower most of the day. Buenos Aires was steady, unchanged to ⅛ cent higher at noon.

Odd-lot sales was the only interest shown in cash grains. Coarse grain prices were firm.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Virtually disregarding the United States Supreme Court process tax decision in the rice millers' case, wheat averaged lower to-day.

There was a short-lived rally of values following the decision, but traders afterward concluded the status of taxes actually collected remained in doubt. Under such circumstances, prices again sagged.

Wheat closed unstable at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 cent lower, May 1.00 to 1.00⅛; corn, ¼ to ⅞ down, May 59⅞ to 60; oats unchanged to ½ off, and provisions varying from 20 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

INDUSTRIALS ARE IRREGULAR

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 13.—An irregular price tone ruled on the horonto industrial share market to-day. Consistent strength was displayed by oils and fair stability by banks and heavy industrials.

British American Oil advanced ⅛ at 21⅝. International Petroleum added ½ at 35½.

Liquor stocks weakened slightly. Walkers common and Distillers-Seagrams dropped about ¼ each and Industrial Alcohol "A" closed unchanged at 10 after dipping to 9¾. Canada Bud and Canada Malting had minor gains in the beer group. Foods, utilities and constructions were on the down side.

Price Swings On Vancouver Market Continue Mixed

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—Dentonia turned active during the morning session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange to-day, advancing 1c to 34c on a turnover of better than 6,000 shares.

The market as a whole continued mixed. Total turnover for the early session closed at 130,000 shares, about the same as Saturday's volume.

Minto was fairly active but easier, stock trading more than 11,000 shares to ease a half cent at 10c. Bralorne was stronger in early trading, but lost part of its gain as the session got under way. Price closed at $6.80 for an advance of 10c after being up 20c.

B.C. Nickel was weaker, losing 2½c, while 1c declines appeared in Cariboo, Premier, Relief Arlington and Reno. Minto and Grange were fractionally lower.

Congress, B.R.X., Wayside, Island Mountain, Mak Siccar, Big Missouri and Sheep Creek were quieter and remained generally unchanged.

Canadian Press

New York, Jan. 13.—Leading currencies were lower on the foreign exchange market to-day.

Pounds sterling conceded 1⅜ cents to $4.96⅝ cents and Canadian dollars fell 1⅛ cents to .98⅞ cents while French francs eased .02⅜ cent to 6.62⅛ cents.

and Hon. Ewen Macpherson, Manitoba provincial Treasurer.

COURT HEARING

Constitutional problems will be attacked on another front in Ottawa this week when the judges of the Supreme Court of Canada hear arguments on the validity of much of the social legislation passed by the last Parliament.

On Wednesday, hearings will be opened on the reference of some eight measures which made up a part of the Bennett government's reform programme. The Dominion Government will be represented by counsel instructed to uphold the constitutional validity of these measures, with counsel for the provinces taking the stand the legislation is ultra vires of the Dominion Parliament.

The statutes involved in the Supreme Court hearing are: The Natural Products Marketing Act of 1934 and its amendments passed in 1935; the Unemployment and Social Insurance Act, 1935; the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act, 1934; the Dominion Trade and Industry Act, 1935; three measures dealing with hours of work, minimum wages and a weekly day of rest, and certain amendments to the Criminal Code which, with the Dominion Trade and Industry Act, arose from the report of the price spreads and mass buying inquiry commission.

BOND MARKET IMPROVEMENT

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 13.—Pronounced strength in various fixed values and a further moderate rise in U.S. governments were the principal characteristics of the bond market during early trading to-day.

Leading foreign issues were higher with Italians showing improvement of 1 to ¾ points.

Tarzan The Untamed

Below Roger's plane the dense jungle passed swiftly, giving place to a wide expanse of arid waste lands cleft by deep, narrow gorges. . . . The young aviator tried to convince himself that Tarzan's charges against Otra were false. "But what if she were really a Red spy?" he asked himself. On the one hand he could not surrender the woman he loved to a certain fate that would be meted out to her if she were proved a traitor to the British cause. And it would be equally impossible for him as an English officer to give her aid and protection. . . . . Now the plane was nearing high over a mountain ridge.

Ska, the vulture, winging his homeward way at a high altitude, caught sight of the strange bird of gigantic proportions. Whether with intent to give battle to this poacher on his domain, or impelled by curiosity, Ska rose suddenly upward to meet the plane. Doubtless he misjudged the speed of the newcomer.

The tip of the propeller blade touched him and simultaneously many things happened. Ska's lifeless body dropped toward the ground; a bit of splintered spruce drove backward, striking the pilot on the forehead; the plane shuddered and trembled, and as Lieutenant Roger Cecil sank forward in momentary unconsciousness the ship dived headlong toward the earth.

Short-term Marriage Idea Root Of Divorce

Dorothy Dix

Says Young Couples Do Not Take It Seriously

IN SPITE OF THE FACT that the cold statistics show that the average marriage lasts only several years, we like to believe that every bride and groom enter the holy estate with a firm conviction that their marriage is going to be like the fairy-tale ones in which they lived happily ever afterward.

Hence it is shocking to learn that nowadays love's young dream is tinged with cynicism, and that even those who stumble to the altar in a trance of bliss anticipate waking up from it some day. They do not consider marriage an until-death-do-us-part contract. Rather they regard it as a nice party while it lasts.

Recently the Marital Relations Institute has been trying to find out just how long the average man and woman really expected their marriage to endure. It polled the applicants for marriage licenses for seven cities, representing all sections of the country, and it found that the average expectancy of marriage is sixteen years, two months and one week. About a third of the lovers interrogated declared that they expected their marriages to last forever, but 6 per cent of the 18,000 persons questioned admitted that two years of matrimony was the best for which they hoped.

That's the answer to the question of why the modern marriage is so often a failure and divorce so common. Young people do not go into it for a permanent job. They take a fling at it as they might at a lottery ticket. If it wins out, fine and dandy. If it doesn't, too bad. Tough luck. But you don't have to stand it. It is just a passing episode. Nothing is more common than to hear a girl or boy say that they will try marriage once, anyway.

No marriage entered into in this spirit can be a success unless both husband and wife are darlings of the gods and have some special miracle worked in their behalf. Nor could any man or woman succeed in any other career if they undertook it with the intention of quitting if the sledding got hard or they lost their taste for it or it wasn't all their fancy painted it. You can't imagine a doctor becoming an eminent practitioner or a great surgeon if he took his profession up with the idea of trying it for a couple of years, or a business man becoming a merchant prince if in the back of his head was the idea that he would go into bankruptcy the minute he discovered that running a store was work and worry instead of just fun and playing.

No. Those who make a success of any calling sign up for a life job at it. They know that to make a go of anything you have to stick to it. You have to put in years and years of trying. Years and years of struggle and sacrifice and labor. You have to have the courage to endure disillusion and blighted hopes and the grit to carry on in the face of defeat.

And the men and women who can do this seldom fail. They compel success, and often when the battle seems lost to them it suddenly turns into a splendid victory.

But those who espouse a cause halfheartedly are beaten before they even start to fight. They have no determination to win out despite obstacles. They don't even intend to stick to what they have undertaken to do if they get tired of it, or some other prospect beckons. And so they change from occupation to occupation and wander the world over seeking jobs and never accomplish anything in life.

And success in marriage is made just the same way as success in any other human undertaking. It is made by going into it with a grim determination to stick to it, to bring all of one's intelligence and courage to making a go of it, no matter what discouragements one encounters. The husbands and wives who do this reach their golden wedding day with the foundations of their homes stronger than they were when they were married.

It is the boys and girls who do not expect their marriages to last who clutter up society with their messy divorces. They have just taken an option on each other instead of entering into a binding life partnership. Most of them don't even establish a permanent home.

It is here to-day and gone to-morrow and swap partners. It is all such a transient arrangement that they don't think it worth while to even try to adapt themselves to each other or to cultivate comradeship or do any of the hard work or make any of the sacrifices that it takes to make marriage a success. It is easier to throw up the job and quit.

It is the short-term marriage that is at the root of divorce, for none of us can put much heart and enthusiasm into a temporary job.

Uncle Wiggily's Fire Alarm

By HOWARD R. GARIS

One day when Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods he heard in a field nearby some animal boys talking.

"Let's play fire alarm," said Johnny Bushytail, the squirrel.

"Fine!" exclaimed Sammie Littletail, a rabbit. "I'll be the engine on my sled. I guess they have sled fire engines, don't they?"

"Sure, they must have 'em up in Canada where there's always a lot of snow in winter," said Billie Wagtail, a goat boy. "Come on, we'll have fun playing fire. I'll be the alarm."

"What do you mean you'll be the alarm?" asked Johnnie.

"I have a bell off my bicycle," bleated Billie. "I'll ring it like the bell on a fire alarm box. Ding-ding and then ding-ding-ding," he said, tinkling his bell. "That's box 23," he went on, "and it's over by that big maple tree. Everybody must go there and put out the fire."

"What with?" asked Sammie. "We haven't any water."

"Use snowballs," said the goat boy. "I guess they put out the fires in Canada with snow when the water is frozen. Ding! Ding! Ding!" he rang his bell again.

UNCLE WIGGILY WATCHES

In the woods Uncle Wiggily watched the animal boys playing fire alarm. They had a lot of fun and later that afternoon when Uncle Wiggily hopped home to his hollow stump bungalow he was thinking about how good it was to have an alarm in case of fire. So he said to his wife:

"What would you do if our bungalow caught fire?"

"I'd see that you and the children and Nurse Jane got safely out," answered Mrs. Longears. "Then I'd get out myself."

"That would be very sweet of you, my dear," said Mr. Longears. "But wouldn't you do anything else?"

"Anything else?" said the rabbit lady sort of dreamy like. "Oh, yes. I'd try to get the fire engines here to put ou the fire."

"That's it!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "We should have a fire alarm right here in our bungalow so we could ring it quickly. I'm going to make one."

"How can you make a fire alarm?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"All I need is a bell," said Mr. Longears. "I have an old cracked one the Lady Mouse School Teacher gave me when I bought her a new one for Christmas. The cracked bell will do to sound a fire alarm for our bungalow."

"Well, I hope it works," said his wife. "But I hope we don't ever have a fire."

THE SAME

Uncle Wiggily hoped the same, but at the same time he was on the lookout all ready to ring the alarm at the first sight of fire or smoke. He kept the bell near him. One day, all of a sudden, he smelled smoke in the bungalow.

"Oh, ho! A fire at last!" cried Mr. Longears. He began to clang the bell: "Ding dong! Ding dong! Ding dong!" running to the front door with it. The Police Dog and the water bugs heard the alarm and up they came rushing to Uncle Wiggily's bungalow.

"Fire! Fire!" cried the rabbit gentleman, hopping about on one leg. "Fire! Put it out!" But when the water bugs crawled into the bungalow they saw Nurse Jane running out of her kitchen, wiping smoke from her eyes with a handkerchief tied on her tail.

"Please stop ringing that fire alarm bell, Mr. Longears!" said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "And you water bugs please go out. There isn't any fire."

"What makes all the smoke?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, I had a cake in the oven and I forgot it and it burned," said Nurse Jane. Then everybody laughed. And if the kitchen sink will give the gas stove a paper bag full of water I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's police alarm.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1936

Under this planetary government persons in authority should benefit, according to astrology, which reads in to-day's horoscope promise of quick aid in employment owing to government changes in policy.

This is an auspicious date for seeking work, especially if it belongs to the arts or sciences. Americans are to make astonishing progress in music, painting and sculpture, while chemists, geologists and astronomers are to gain fame.

Disconcerting news is indicated for the United States Government before the end of the month. International incidents will be embarrassing.

Changes in the President's cabinet will be numerous and heads of departments at Washington will shift amazingly, it is foretold.

From London comes the prediction by a leading astrologer that President Roosevelt will gain added popularity with the masses as he loses it among the upper classes.

Lord Tweedsmuir, the new Governor-General of Canada, will do much to encourage trade and other friendly relations with the United States. He will probably encounter immigration problems and serious Communist propaganda.

Serious labor troubles affecting the department in Washington are prognosticated for later this winter. Sensational occurrences that test government policies are indicated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of satisfactory business or professional advancement. Women should enjoy increase of income.

Children born on this day probably will be keen in mind and energetic in action. Subjects of this sign usually are trustworthy and successful.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, British statesman, was born on this day, 1845. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Frederick A. Eilers, metallurgist, 1839, and John Biddle, founder of the Unitarian Church, 1615.

NINE DIE IN HOUSE FIRE

Father Is Only One of Lancashire Mining Family to Escape

Canadian Press

London, Jan. 13.—Eight children and their mother, Sarah Alice Tyrer, forty, were burned to death early to-day when fire destroyed a miner's house on Green Bank Street at Tyldesley, Lancashire.

Adam Tyrer, the father, was the only survivor. The whole family dropped fourteen feet when the floor of the bedroom in which they were sleeping gave way.

One of a long row of cottages occupied by miners, the Tyrer home was gutted. When it cooled a little firemen had to dig deep in the ruins to recover the bodies of the nine victims.

Second Polish Liner To Make Maiden Trip

Ms. Batory, Sister Ship of Ms. Pilsudski Will Leave Gdynia May 18 for New York; Has Fine Appointments

New York, Jan. 13.—The new motorliner Batory, sister-ship of the Ms. Pilsudski and second new transatlantic liner to be built by Poland since the nation regained its independence, will leave Gdynia on her maiden trip on May 18 and arrive in New York May 27, it has been announced by the Gdynia America Line. On its return maiden voyage, the Batory will leave New York June 2.

Launched last July 3, the new liner is nearing completion at the Monfalcone Shipyards in Trieste, Italy. Like the Pilsudski, the Batory will be paid for in coal sent by the Polish government to Italian railways over a period of five years. It will join the Pilsudski on the New York-Halifax-Copenhagen-Gdynia run, the two liners scheduled to make a total of twtnty round-trip transatlantic crossings during 1936.

A distinctive feature of the new liners lies in the innovation of "tourist class" as the top class on board. The Batory, as did the Pilsudski, will cut down the running time between New York and Copenhagen to eight days and to Gdynia to eight and a half days. On schedules formerly maintained by the steamers Pulaski and Kosciuszko, the complete run took twelve days. Each of the new ships have accommodations for 800 passengers.

FINE ACCOMMODATION

The Batory has a displacement of 16,000 tons. Constructed for comfort without ostentation, it will have the most modern equipment throughout, including tile swimming pool, gymnasium, intercabin telephones, elevators, cinema theatres, children's playrooms, garages for passengers' motor cars and the last word in navigation facilities. It will be propelled by two Diesel engines.

With the construction of the Batory and Pilsudski, Poland is considered as having reached maturity as a maritime nation. Starting out without a single ship fifteen years ago, Poland has built up a mercantile marine comprised of eighty-six vessels with an aggregate tonnage close to 200,000 tons. The growth of the merchant fleet has been simultaneous with the phenomenal rise of Poland's new seaport at Gdynia, which has been converted from a fishing village to the leading port on the Baltic in the past ten years.

The Batory was named after Stephen Batory, one of Poland's greatest kings, who reigned from 1576 to 1586. The real founder of Poland's maritime ambitions, Batory based his policies on the idea that Poland must have a seacoast to become a world power, that it must not be hemmed in by neighbors without a free outlet to the sea. He was the first to attempt to found a rival to Danzig by building the city of Elbing on the Vistula delta, which he meant to set up as Poland's own port. This move has been paralleled with remarkable success by the rise of Gdynia under the late Marshal Josef Pilsudski, after whom the first new motorliner was named.

With deep insight into the fundamentals of empire-building, Batory realized the importance of the Baltic shore for the existence and prosperity of Poland. One of his first accomplishments was the subjection of hostile Danzig in 1577, and since then, for three and a half centuries, Danzig continued to be loyal to the interests of Poland. The fleet which Batory organized against Danzig was Poland's first in history.

WARSHIPS ON DAY CRUISE

Preparatory to starting their annual training cruise to the West Indies next Monday, H.M.C.S. Skeena and H.M.C.S. Vancouver of the Esquimalt naval station were out in the straits to-day adjusting their compasses.

This year's training cruise to southern waters has been considerably curtailed. The ships will not leave Esquimalt until about two weeks later than usual and it is understood they will return about five weeks earlier. They will probably be back late in April.

In West Indies waters the two local destroyers will meet H.M.C.S. Saguenay and H.M.C.S. Champlain and the four will carry out manoeuvres with several ships of the Royal Navy.

NEW VESSEL IS LAUNCHED

Speedy New Freighter for Puget Sound Company Cost $70,000

Seattle, January 13. — Combining latest developments for speedy and safe handling of freight into a finished product which will be the finest vessel of her type on the Pacific Coast, a new Sound freighter was launched from the plant of the Western Boatbuilding Company at Tacoma this morning at 8.30 o'clock for the Puget Sound freight lines.

The boat, which represents the expenditure of about $70,000, was built from plans drawn by Capt. F. E. Lovejoy, president of the company, and his son, Howard Lovejoy, Seattle naval architect. She measures 154 feet over all with a beam of thirty-eight feet and a depth of eight feet. She will have a loaded draft of thirty inches and a speed of ten knots.

A tunnel stern twin-screw job, the new vessel will be powered with two 200-horsepower Atlas-Imperial engines, and her auxiliary engine to furnish power for equipment will be a seventy-five-horsepower Washington Diesel.

Miss Doris Ryan, daughter of Capt. George J. Ryan, now master of the Seatac but slated to take the new craft, sponsored the ship and christened her.

The carrier has many unique and advantageous features, including operation of winches, discharge pumps for cargo oil tanks and Barlow freight elevator by compressed air, this last innovation originating with Capt. Lovejoy.

Peacock Spit Has Taken Many Ships

Dozens of Lives Claimed As Ships Dashed Ashore There Through the Years; Nine Ships in Last Six Years Have Met Doom There

Seattle, Jan. 13.—Peacock Spit—graveyard of ships!

Scores of vessels have gone to their doom on the treacherous sand bar at the mouth of the mighty Columbia River, a spot feared by every mariner—with good reason.

Along the brief stretch of coast from Warrenton, Ore., to North Cove, Washington, which includes the Peacock Spit area, no less than seventy-seven ships have been lost, according to statistics compiled by C. H. Fitzpatrick of Ocean Park, Washington.

Within the last six years nine vessels have met with disaster on Peacock Spit itself, or hard by, including yesterday's sinking of the freighter Iowa with all hands, a glance at the records disclosed. And, by some amazing quirk of fate—or perhaps a mariners' jinx—five of these nine wrecks were on Sunday!

WORST IN YEARS

The Iowa disaster is the most appalling in Pacific Northwest waters since the Nevada was wrecked off the Aleutian Islands September 28, 1932, with a loss of thirty-four lives.

Peacock Spit was christened with the proud name of a victim it claimed on July 18, 1841—the United States sloop Peacock. One of the worst of its long list of disasters, according to records in the possession of Mrs. Hazel Niendorff, was the wrecking of the steamship Rosecrans on January 7, 1913, with a loss of thirty-three lives.

Credit is given to better navigation aids and the work of the United States coast guard and life saving service for the fact that where in former years in several disasters hundreds of lives were lost in shipwrecks of the North Pacific most of those in peril are saved from the sea these days.

SOUTHEAST GALES

It is during violent southeast storms that vessels are most endangered in navigating the mouth of the Columbia. Sometimes a gale will blow them from their course upon clutching sands, there to be battered to bits by mountainous waves.

And then, say mariners, there's an eerie factor in some of the disasters. More than one ship, it is claimed, has been lured to destruction when her pilot mistook the gleaming ribs of some preceding victim for some landmark of safety—only to realize his mistake when it was too late.

RECENT DISASTERS

Among recent ships that came to grief on or adjacent to Peacock Spit are the following:

Freighter Laurel, June 16, 1929, one life lost; Admiral Benson, February 15, 1930, no loss of life; Admiral Nulton, January 26, 1931, no lives lost; Sea Thrush, December 4, 1932, no one lost; Pescawha, February 27, 1933, one life lost; Stensby, August 6, 1933, no loss of life; Charles L. Wheeler, December 17, 1933, no lives lost; Childar, May 4, 1934, four lives lost; Iowa, January 12, 1936, thirty-four lives lost.

Canadian Senator Sails to Europe

New York, Jan. 13.—Senator A. C. Hardy of Ontario was among the passengers who sailed from here a few days ago aboard the Cunard-White Star liner Aquitania for Europe. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hardy and their daughter, Miss Dorothy Hardy.

Others on the same ship were Sir Robert Peel, son of Beatrice Lillie, the well-known English actress; Stanley Lupino, actor; Alice White, actress; Lady Clipperton and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Huntley.

New Yorkers on the Empress of Britain, when she started her world cruise were Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Van Sinderlin, Dr. and Mrs. John T. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Partridge, Mrs. Inman Brokaw, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. King Sr., Harris D. Colt, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hutcheson, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin L. Bear, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Sicard, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Foess, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bourne, Mrs. H. G. Scott, Alan Wolfe and Mrs. Fred Lewisholm.

Ship In Port Taking Lumber

Loading 750,000 feet of Vancouver Island lumber for the United Kingdom, the British freighter Uffington Court is to-day at the Ogden Point piers. She arrived late yesterday evening from Port Alice and will leave Wednesday morning for Vancouver.

King Brothers have received no definite word regarding the arrival of the Ms. Pacific Pioneer from England. She is to-day in Seattle and will probably reach the Rithet piers late to-night or early to-morrow morning. She is bringing ninety tons of general freight for this port. There are six passengers aboard for Vancouver.

PILOT RULES ARE ANNOUNCED

Pilotage Is Not Compulsory, Official Ottawa Notice to Mariners Says

In an official Notice to Mariners, pilotage information for ships using Victoria, Vancouver and other ports inside Vancouver Island was received this morning from Ottawa from R. K. Smith, deputy Minister of Marine.

The notice says:

"Mariners are advised that when proceeding to Vancouver and Victoria and other ports inside Vancouver Island, from sea, they may procure pilots on application to the Superintendent of Pilots at Vancouver, or the Pilotage Office at Victoria, by wireless. The boarding vessel will be found within a radius of seven miles from Race Rocks.

"Vessels proceeding to ports on the west coast of Vancouver Island, Queen Charlotte Island, Prince Rupert, or other northern ports, from sea, may procure a pilot on application to the Superintendent of Pilots at Vancouver or to the Pilotage Office at Victoria, by giving ample notice by telegram or wireless to allow a pilot to proceed from either Vancouver or Victoria to the port specified. The telegraphic address is "Pilots," Vancouver or "Pilots," Victoria.

"The boarding station for Prince Rupert and other northern ports is located at Triple Island, northern entrance to Brown passage, Hecate Strait.

PILOT SIGNALS

"In normal weather the pilot boat will fly the pilot flag in daytime and at night will show the regular masthead and sidelights with the addition of the red light under the masthead light. Ships requiring pilots should show the International Signals required for pilots by day or night. In abnormal weather such as fog, snow, or heavy rain, the vessel requiring a pilot should, in addition to the regular signals, blow four long blasts at intervals until the pilot boat is located. The pilot vessel will, in addition to the regular signals, blow four short blasts at intervals.

"Pilotage is not compulsory. Vessels voluntarily using a pilot must pay the authorized dues. If a pilot is used, only those holding a license issued by the Pilotage Authority must be employed. Vessels using other than a licensed pilot will be required to pay the pilotage dues which would otherwise have been paid, had a licensed pilot been employed.

"The Pilotage District is divided into zones and masters of vessels should request pilots to produce their license to show the zones in which they are licensed to pilot."

Harbor Board In Vancouver

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—For the next week the waterfronts of Vancouver and New Westminster will be subject to a close study by two members of the new Federal Central Harbor Board.

H. E. A. Hawken, assistant Deputy Minister of the Department of Marine, chairman, and Col. A. E. Dubuc, chief engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, are the two members of the new board who will make the study. They arrived here to-day.

"We will look over everything connected with the harbors," Mr. Hawken said. He would not specify any particular study which the board may have in mind. Asked about the First Narrows and New Westminster bridges, he indicated that as part of the waterfront problems they would be included in the survey.
